

Last but not least of all, I extend my utmost appreciation to those who have guided me when I have been misguided and dedicate this guide to all those who I have known. I wonder whether I would still be sane without you all.

Please note that no shortcuts are given to specific chapters because there are 150+ chapters in total, and each chapter doesn't take long to scroll past. Just search for the appropriate Mode first, and then scroll to find the correct chapter.

~::~ 1) FAQs ~::~ [0100]

Presumably, you know that FAQs is an acronym for Frequently Asked Questions. Here, readers can skim for things that they have been wondering themselves without reading the entire guide.

a) General ----- [0110]

Q: Why did you make a guide on a game that was released in late 2003?

A: It's not that long ago... But, if you take a look at the other guides, they all are lacking in some way. I've had experience with the game long enough to understand that not everything remains the same over time. People's perceptions and knowledge constantly changes and grows. Having said that, this guide aims to use the knowledge acquired over the last few years to address all the issues with other guides, as well as publish a final comprehensive reference on the game.

Q: Are your strategies the best?

A: No, not at all. In a chapter, there are multiple solutions. I've written this guide using the strategies that I use myself. They are not necessarily the fastest, or the best, but they are almost always very safe and reliable to complete the chapter.

Q: Why do your strategies gradually become less specific?

A: As the game progresses, the linearity of the game declines rapidly. More chapters, characters and choices are available to the player. Because of this, I have to be vague to accommodate to different objectives.

Q: Who exactly are you?

A: My name is Ashwin Suresh. My GameFAQs Contributor name is Armads, but I am better known by my board name, which is Sealed Lance. I'm a 16 year old student living in Australia. My interest in Fire Emblem has not dwindled to this day.

b) Newcomers ----- [0120]

Q: How many games are in Fire Emblem? How does this game fit into the series?

A: Most people would have heard of the most recent entries into the series, Fire Emblem (this game), The Sacred Stones and Path of Radiance (GCN). The series is in fact much, much bigger than that. This game is actually the SEVENTH in a long line of games in the series. There are currently a total of nine games in the series. Fire Emblem is the prequel to the sixth game in the series, Fuuin no Tsurugi (Sealed Sword/Sword of Seals) starring Roy.

Q: Are Marth and Roy in this game?

A: Marth isn't, but Roy is. Marth starred in the very first and third games in the Fire Emblem series. A long time ago... Marth is in a completely different universe from Roy. Roy has a VERY MINUTE cameo in the game at the very end. He stars in Fuuin no Tsurugi (FE6), the sequel to this game. Note that not many of the Fire Emblem games are connected in the way FE6 and FE7 are.

Q: What kind of game is Fire Emblem?

A: If you've ever played an SRPG such as Tactics Ogre, Shining Force, or Advance Wars, you'll have an idea of what Fire Emblem is about. Fire Emblem has a remarkable similarity to Advance Wars, because Intelligent Systems was responsible for both games. The operations and controls are very similar, and this is also the case with the way the units battle and move. The genre of Fire Emblem is basically a SRPG that is turn-based. You control your army in order to achieve set objectives.

Q: How hard is Fire Emblem?

A: Fire Emblem is very unique, because it is more realistic than many other games in the department of dying. When a unit's HP reaches 0, they DIE PERMANENTLY. There's no way to revive them. Don't complain either, because it actually makes a lot more sense. The game is VERY challenging in this respect, and requires very well thought-out strategies. The game forces you to review what errors you made and find a way to overcome them in order to progress keeping your party in tact. Fire Emblem is far, far more challenging than games in the same genre such as Advance Wars, because characters are unique and it forces you to consider whether sacrificing a character is a good idea given their abilities. Not to mention... The Japanese version of the game was EVEN HARDER. The game was dumbed down for the stupid, stupid Western world... :/

Q: Why have you subtitled the game 'The Blazing Sword' when no such title appears in the game?

A: Because there are so many games in the series, the subtitle distinguishes this game from all the others. In Japan, the subtitle for this game was 'Rekka no Ken' which roughly translates as 'The Blazing Sword'. It saves people becoming all confused about which game is which.

Q: Fire Emblem vs. Advance Wars?

A: Fire Emblem has superior difficulty, variety of objectives and a better story. Advance Wars has superior multiplayer features, as well as far greater customisation of units and maps. They are very similar but quite different at the same time. I frankly find Fire Emblem more interesting. Unless you have friends to play against, Advance Wars becomes boring very quickly (and not to mention, it's dead easy because of the fixed RNG).

c) In-Depth ----- [0130]

Q: My character died, so I reset the game. The game continually replays the death of that character. Is it possible for them to survive eventually from the killing blow?

A: NO. It's a sad truth of life, I'm afraid. Fire Emblem saves the same string of RNGs from that particular sequence of actions, so unless you reset the chapter, the same sequence of actions results in the exact same series of results due to the exact same string of RNGs. Accept the loss, and reset the chapter, or if you have come too far to go back, keep going without the character.

Q: Something isn't made very clear by you...

A: Carry out a Search of the entire guide for that word 'Ctrl + F'. If that doesn't work, please contact me by e-mail (mindreader.ivan@gmail.com) and I'll address your problem. I appreciate feedback, because it helps me improve my guide during the next update.

Q: What is my affinity? What does it do?

A: All characters have an affinity, including you; the tactician. An affinity is basically an element based on your birth month. For example, I was born in November and hence, my affinity is Ice. If the tactician shares the same affinity as a character, the character gains a slight boost to hit and evade rates. It hasn't been confirmed yet exactly how much of a boost it provides, but it is minute enough to discard from serious strategy (although it still helps to have a common affinity).

Q: After Chapter 10, all my old characters disappeared!!! What now?

A: Continue playing the game. They'll eventually show up later once again.

Q: I received this insanely good unit called Marcus in Chapter 11! He owns!

A: There's a trap in overusing Marcus that all new players fall into (unless you are reading this). Marcus is what we call a prepromote, or a unit that has already been promoted when the player recruits them. Because he has already been promoted, he gains far less EXP than unpromoted units (due to the EXP formula). This means he is sapping up the EXP that unpromoted units would be putting to better use. Most new players find that late in the game, Marcus is their only strong unit, but towards the end of the game Marcus ends up relatively weaker than the unpromoted units when promoted, which means they are in trouble without assistance. The trick to using Marcus (he can be used, just NOT overused) is to weaken enemies for other allies, and quickly rescue those in need. He is also useful for rushing chapters because of his high movement.

Q: Athos gave me some item called the Afa's Drops that 'increases maturity'. What the heck is that?

A: Well, the game designers decided to be wise-guys and make a cryptic description. Basically, whoever you use the Afa's Drops on gains a boost to their growth rates of all their stats. It has been thought that the boost is approximately 5%, but this hasn't been confirmed. This particular character also gets the priveledge of commenting on your tactician rank at the end of the game in the Battle History option, under Extras.

Q: Do prepromotes like Marcus suck?

A: Not according to me. There are plenty of excellent prepromotes, such as Harken and Pent. Prepromotes usually have more balanced and stable stats, better CON and better weapon levels. On the flip side, unpromoted units have much more potential, but require much more time to level up and become competent fighters.

Q: What the?! Hector was attacking a wall with the Devil Axe, but he killed himself?

A: Pay more attention to what the description of the Devil Axe says. It is cursed, which means it may backfire on the user. Normally, it has a nasty habit of backfiring only when a unit performs a critical... which means, a critical could be death for you. The Devil Axe is still a very useful weapon, because it gives much more weapon EXP (to level up weapon ranks) than normal. In fact, eight times than normal.

Q: Which character should I use? Am I doing the right thing by using...?

A: Relax... Use whoever you want. Fire Emblem is a pretty flexible game, so even if a player screwed up somewhere down the track, it can all be ironed out in the end. The only exception is probably Hector Hard Mode, but let's not worry about that now.

Q: Why can't thieves and pirates promote using the Earth Seal?

A: They are unique classes that can only be promoted using their individual promotion items. Thieves promote using the Fell Contract, and pirates promote only using the Ocean Seal.

Q: How can I get Karla/Renault's support conversations? They appear so late!

A: In both cases, it seems like there are only two chapters remaining. But, the Final Chapter is split into two parts. Each part is considered a chapter for supporting purposes, so you can support say Renault and Lucius in Victory or Death, Light, and Light Part II. In Hector mode, you can also take advantage of the bonus chapter after Victory or Death to support in.

Q: How do I get Louise and Pent's support conversations with each other?

A: They automatically have an A support, but for their Support conversations, they both need to be present in certain chapters and the 'talk' option will appear. These particular chapters are: Cog of Destiny, Victory or Death, and Light Part II.

Q: What does the flashing green text mean?

A: For stats, it means that particular unit has hit their maximum for that particular stat. For items, it means that the enemy will drop that item when they die. For weapon level, it means the maximum (S). Similarly, for tactician rank it means the best rank (S). Remember, the maximum HP for units is always 60, and this stat does NOT flash. Sometimes, certain items will give you a bonus in a stat, which is also denoted by the flashing '+X of a stat'.

Q: N0000! My character was so close to maxing...

A: Don't worry about it. Unless you are trying to form a Link Arena team, it's probably better than your stats are balanced, rather than having some extremely good and extremely bad stats.

Q: I've done the game once. Now what?

A: Fire Emblem has INSANE replay value. Start by completing all modes, trying for an S rank in all modes, trying to unlock all Extras, including supports, music and CG screens, as well as doing your own crazy challenges. Be imaginative. Single class runs and single character runs are examples of the more common ones.

There are bound to be thousands and thousands more questions that could be asked. I suggest going to GameFAQs and going to the topic by Aganar called the 'Fire Emblem Definitive Newbie FAQ'. It answers the vast majority of questions that could be asked with very good answers. In fact, I'm not sure I could answer them any better myself.

d) E-mails ----- [0140]

This is a new section where I will post all the questions I have personally received and the answers I gave to them. Once again, I remind readers to send their queries to mindreader.ivan@gmail.com and expect a reply within a few days.

Q: Can we host your guide on...?

A: NO. I only allow a selected few sites to host my guides from now on, because I want to keep a close eye on them all. It's nothing personal, seriously.

Q: I was wondering what you think the 'true' ending of the game is, in terms of Eliwood and his eventual wife. In other words, who do YOU consider to be Roy's real mother? ~ Joshua Blanchard

A: If you have played the sequel, Fire Emblem 6 (Sealed Sword), there are a few clues around that would give a better idea of who Roy's real mother could be.

EXHIBIT A – Roy's mother is dead by the time Roy is 16 (from FE7 and FE6).

ASSUMPTION – The candidates for Eliwood are Fiora, Ninian and Lyn. It is highly unlikely that if Eliwood is alive, he would let his wife go into battle against Bern by themselves. That means his wife must have passed away from a means outside of battle (there is ABSOLUTELY no mention of his wife being killed in battle, and Eliwood is not particularly angry at his wife's death). Ninian has a short time in the human world – Nils points this out at the end of FE7.

EXHIBIT B – In one of the FE6 supports, Marcus says that Eliwood loved his wife so much that he gave her a gift of her favourite flower from a mountain in Ilia (from FE6).

ASSUMPTION – This makes it very unlikely that Lyn ended up with Eliwood.

EXHIBIT C – Rath has a daughter (from FE6)

ASSUMPTION – Well, this one is not as obvious, it would seem, but it might provide further proof that Lyn ends up with Rath. It may not be the case, but it provides more evidence that Lyn is NOT Eliwood's wife.

EXHIBIT D – Fiora and Kent have very similar personalities.

ASSUMPTION – Another opinion of mine, but it seems more likely that Fiora and Kent would hook up. Fiora is definitely NOT a weak woman (do you think she is likely to die from a means outside of battle?), proven by her battle prowess.

CONCLUSION – To me, it would seem that Ninian is the obvious choice. That FE6 support narrows it down to Fiora and Ninian. If Eliwood's wife died of circumstances outside of battle, Ninian's story checks out the best. I find it hard to believe that Fiora would die of a means outside of battle (although it is possible – child birth etc. was difficult in those times) and Lyn liking an Ilian flower does not make much sense.

Q: In each character's profile, under their stats, are three values. B, W and L. What do these letters stand for? ~ Joshua Blanchard

A: B stands for Battles. This represents how many battles that a character has been in, even just avoiding attacks. W stands for Wins. This represents how many battles that the character defeated the enemy (ie reduce their HP to 0). L stands for Losses. This represents how many battles that the character was defeated (ie their HP was reduced to 0). Losses remain even after restarting a chapter.

Q: How did you become so knowledgeable on Fire Emblem? Is it through sheer practice or from guides? ~ Joshua Blanchard

A: Actually, most of my skills come from being involved in the GameFAQs community. There are so many people around that voice different opinions and have pieces of knowledge. It's a matter of reading around I guess. When I picked up Fire Emblem, guides were the last thing I considered. I had no idea about formulas, supports and all that other 'advanced' knowledge. Once you read around a bit, talk to the right people, ask questions and practice a lot (I have played Fire Emblem hundreds of times) you will be in the same position I am in. In short, GameFAQs is the key to my knowledge.

Q: I defeated the game once, but I'm not getting the different mode options. Am I missing something? Do I have to do something special? ~ Leland Monson

A: You did not finish viewing the Epilogue. Finish viewing it (resume chapter > epilogue) and afterwards, you should have unlocked the mode options when beginning a new game.

Q: I have never encountered the iron and killer ballistas. Where can they be found, or used? ~ Richard Dady

A: The ballistas can be found on certain maps. They have limited ammo and vary from type to type depending on the difficulty of the chapter (usually). If you've only played Eliwood Normal Mode, I wouldn't be surprised if you haven't encountered either of them yet. Just play some of the other modes and keep an eye out for ballistas. When you see one on a map, don't assume all ballistas are the same. Some are much more dangerous than others.

Q: By the way, in this case (and in the case of where the game calculates your physical level versus your magical level to determine whether you will get Kenneth's map or Jerme's map), does it count promoted unit levels as the levels they gained when unpromoted plus the ones they gained when promoted, or would it count your magic level higher if you already promoted all your physical units? ~ Mark Letrah

A: Promoted units count as level 20 + whatever level they happen to be. So, if physical units were promoted as opposed to your unpromoted magical units, then you'd gain access to Jerme's map.

~~~~~ 2) GAME OVERVIEW ~~~~~ [0200]

Here you'll learn what's going on in the game, and how this game fits into the series.

a) Story ----- [0210]

Once, dragons and men coexisted.
They shared a peace forged in wisdom,
a peace that lasted many generations.
All that was lost when mankind disrupted this balance in a sudden onslaught.
Man fought dragon in a savage war that shook the foundations of their world.
This war was called The Scouring.
Defeated and humbled, dragons vanished from the realm.
In time, man rebuilt and spread his dominion across the land and on to the islands beyond.

A millenium has passed since those dark days ended.

This is what it says on the Main Title Screen. Fire Emblem seems no different from the likes of typical RPGs, but it is so much more...

One thing the player must understand is that the game is divided into two main sections: Lyn Mode and Eliwood Mode. Lyn Mode acts as a tutorial, with the main character as Lyn, a girl on a quest for revenge who ends up discovering the roots of her past. Eliwood Mode shifts the focus to a much bigger scale of events (in terms of the entire world) with a more important figure, Eliwood.

The story kicks off when the player wakes up to greet the site of a beautiful girl...

I'll leave it there. Find out more (spoilers included) in The Entire Story section.

b) Background ----- [0220]

The History of Fire Emblem enlightens those who have no clue about where this game fits in the series and gives a little background on previous games for the player's benefit.

Fire Emblem: Ankoku Ryuu to Hikari no Tsurugi

Fire Emblem: The Dark Dragon & Sword of Light (NES 1990)

The very first Fire Emblem game and it starred Marth, the prince of Altea. The game itself takes place on the continent of Akaneia. An important note is that the mentor of Marth is Jeigan, an old but powerful knight sworn to protect him. The Devil King Garnef resurrects the Dark Dragon Medeus, allowing the evil Dolua empire to be brought to its former glory. Cornelius, the King of Altea is killed and the Falchion, used to defeat Medeus a century ago by the hero of Altea of the age; Anri. Marth flees to the island kingdom of Talis until the Garuda pirates ambush them and Marth is forced to fight back. Under the army of Talis as well as Jeigan's squad he leads a campaign to destroy Medeus.

Fire Emblem: Gaiden (NES 1991)

In the same world as the original Fire Emblem, but a different setting. The game stars Alm and Celica, who are childhood friends. Throughout the game they build separate armies. Many changes were made from the original, such as as many will know now the branched promotions of The Sacred Stones.

Fire Emblem: Monsho no Nazo

Fire Emblem: Mystery of the Emblem (SNES 1993)

The continued story of Marth, back on the continent of Akaneia. Hardin, the new king and ally of Marth betrays him and soon Marth learns of the existence of Medeus. Marth once again must defeat both his former ally and his past foes, Garnef and Medeus.

Fire Emblem: Seisen no Keifu

Fire Emblem: Genealogy of the Holy War (SNES 1996)

The most popular of all the Fire Emblem games and takes place in the continent of Jugdral. The first half of the game stars Sigurd, the prince of Chalphy. At the end of Chapter Five, he and his squad meet their end because of Alvis and the Thracian army. The second half of the game features Selis, son of Sigurd, leading the second generation (ie. the children of the first generation) or substitutes. Only a single character features in both portions of the game. Similar to Medeus, Manfroy seeks to revive the Dark Lord Loputousu.

Fire Emblem: Thracia 776 (SNES 1999–2000)

The midquel of Genealogy of the Holy War, starring Leaf, son of Cuan; a close friend of Sigurd's. It also features Fin, the survivor of both parts of Genealogy of the Holy War. Leaf's quest is for revenge against the Thracian army for what they did to his parents. Some of the new features in this game included fog-of-war maps and the rescue command. Widely considered the most difficult Fire Emblem game in the series.

Fire Emblem: Fuuin no Tsurugi

Fire Emblem: Sword of Seals (GBA 2002)

Taking place on the continent of Elibe and the sequel to the very game I am writing this guide on. It stars Roy, son of Eliwood; Marquess of Pherae. Roy must lead the League of Lycia when his father becomes ill. King Zephiel, ruler of Bern has completed his conquest of Ilia and Sacae and is getting ready to complete his world domination by conquering Lycia. During his travels, he encounters many twists and turns that change his perceptions of the enemy and Roy eventually discovers many truths about the land and its people.

Fire Emblem: Rekka no Ken

Fire Emblem: The Blazing Sword (GBA 2003)

THIS GUIDE IS BASED ON THIS GAME

Fire Emblem: Seima no Kouseki

Fire Emblem: The Sacred Stones (GBA 2004–2005)

The final GBA Fire Emblem game takes place on the continent of Magvel. Men sealed the evil in the land (monsters) using the Sacred Stones which became heirlooms to different royal families. Grado, the biggest country has recently began invading the other nations. The story begins with the fall of Renais. Prince Ephraim is out of reach after going to the front lines so King Fado orders Seth to take Princess Eirika (twin sister of Ephraim) to Frelia, the neighbour of Renais and seek assistance. This game is considered the easiest in the series.

Fire Emblem: Souen no Kiseki

Fire Emblem: Path of Radiance (GAMECUBE 2005)

Path of Radiance takes place in another completely new continent, Tellius. It stars Ike, a mercenary training under his father Greil who lives in Crimea. Out of the blue, the nearby kingdom Daein attacks Crimea's capital, resulting in Ike and his friends being thrown into a complicated plot involving the Black Knight, a race known as the Laguz and a sealed god of chaos.

~~~ 3) GAME BASICS ~~~~~ [0300]

Here you go, all newcomers should have a quick read of this section. It's a brief summary of everything that you should know before you begin. I'm not treating you like idiots, but even more experienced players should still skim this section anyway.

a) Hints ----- [0310]

Here are a few general tips.

- Check the units that you are going to attack or get in range of. These include looking at their weapons and stats to see how they will fare against you. This will make all the difference between death and survival.
- Use terrain advantages. If you see a forest, use it! Make the most of different terrains to gain evasion and sometimes defence or HP.
- Conserve your money and spend it wisely. Don't blow your money or you'll be regretting it later on.
- Don't dawdle. If you aren't doing something purposeful it is probably going to be useless. Have fun, but make sure you know what you are doing.
- Have a clear idea of the objective. Nothing else matters. Everything else comes in priority after the objective.
- Use the weapon and magic triangles. It will make combat much easier.
- Keep melee units in the frontline, ranged units towards the rear. A basic principle.
- In fog-of-war, advance surely but carefully. Make sure that your strongest units are in the frontline.
- Steal anything you can. Thieves rarely gain EXP. Pilfering goods can only do the player good.
- Don't underestimate bosses. Especially the final boss.
- Promote units at level 20 to realise their full potential, instead of fulfilling the minimum requirement of level 10.
- Don't be too concerned about the stats and level ups of some of your units. They can always be replaced.
- After beating the game once, when units are moving around during a turn, hold A and they will start moving at a super-fast speed. You can't reverse this effect, but I can't see why you would want to - if units move faster, chapters are completed faster as well.

b) Operations ----- [0320]

A few basic operations about the game.

I won't explain the basic controls, but here are a few useful buttons to remember.

START - View overall map mini version

SELECT - Turn on/off the yellow text tutorial (Very useful for skipping text)

R - View more details.

"Soft reset"

A + B + SELECT + START

The game resets.

"Hard reset"

Switch the game off and back on manually using the hardware.

The basic battle operations are as follows:

ATTACK – When you are in range of a foe, this option becomes available. Hit A to attack, select the target, hit A and hit A to confirm the battle statistics.

PLAY/DANCE – An option available to a unique class (bard/dancer). Allows a greyed out (ie. used) unit to be able to move and attack again etc.

STAFF – Allows healers etc. to heal, or cast a spell with an effect on units.

STEAL – Available to thieves when they are right next to an opponent who has an item that is NOT a weapon. They can steal that weapon provided they have at least 2 more speed than the enemy.

ITEM – Allows the player to re-equip weapons, use items and view items.

WAIT – When a unit has done their actions for that turn, this icon indicates that the player acknowledges their location and ends turn for that unit.

RIDE/EXIT – Archers and snipers have this option when they are in a ballista. They can ride or exit the ballista. The ballista has more power and range than a standard bow, in exchange for much less ammunition.

There are quite a few interactions with units as in the following:

RESCUE

Is available when a unit is adjacent to another unit (up,down,left,right) but the unit who can rescue must have higher aid than the other unit's constitution

GIVE
When a unit with a rescued comrade is near another unit who still has enough aid to carry the rescued unit, the carrier can pass the rescued unit to the other unit.

TAKE

The reverse operation of give, where instead of being available to the rescuer, it is available to the vacant unit.

DROP

The rescuer can drop the unit in any square directly adjacent to them.

TRADE

When a unit is directly adjacent to another unit, this option appears. This can be used to trade items.

MERCH

When a unit is directly adjacent to Merlinus, this option appears. Allows units to exchange items with Merlinus's stock.

SUPPORT

When a unit is next to a support compatible unit, this option appears after a certain number of turns (ranges from 1 to 341). This command appears 3 times at most between two units. Gives special battle bonuses to both units.

TALK

Available between two units for insight into them at certain parts of the game.

There are also some landform interactions with your army:

ARMORY

A place to purchase weapons (primarily)

VENDOR

A place to purchase magic items (primarily)

INN

Only in Chapter 16xE, a place where you talk to Anna. Nothing important.

ARENA

A place where units can train and bet for money at the risk of their survival.

VISIT

Visit villages and houses for information and sometimes to recruit units.

SEIZE

Use on thrones to complete the chapter.

CHEST

If a unit has a key or thief has a lockpick and stands on a chest, this command can be used to open it.

DOOR

Similar deal as with the chest command, but this is used on doors.

Press A in the chapter on a random square that is not taken up by a unit. A set of options appear:

Hit A on a blank space and a Menu pops up with the following;

UNITS

Scroll through different menus to learn everything about that character. Very important in Fire Emblem. Includes, character, fighting skill, equipment, personal data, weapon level and supports.

STATUS

Tells the player what the objective is, turn count, funds, player and enemies' leaders, number of units in the armies.

OPTIONS

Adjust animation, game speed, text speed, viewing terrain in battle, display of unit information (burst or standard), detail of initial combat stats, displaying objectives, controller, subtitle help, autocursor, turning music and sound on/off and window colour. Most options are self-explanatory, others are easy to figure out through experimentation.

Highly recommended settings: Animation 2, Text speed Max, Combat Detail, Unit Burst, Game Speed Fast

SUSPEND

Save your data in the current state of the chapter which is NOT permanent in the sense you can revert back to the beginning of the chapter. This is used for when you need to save your game in a hurry – just save in the right position, not a screwed up one!

END

End your army's turn so that the enemy can have their turn.  Quicker than hitting wait for every individual unit ***

The main menu is rather easy to navigate, with some standard features such as erasing and copying data as well as starting a new game. The few options you may not be familiar with are:

- RESUME CHAPTER: When you have saved in the middle of a chapter you can continue from that exact state.
- RESTART CHAPTER: Restart the entire chapter from where you last saved the game.

 Learn to manipulate your files so that you can always reset in the right places and do not regret saving/not going back when needed.

Before you start a chapter, the following options are available after Chapter 14 Eliwood: False Friends. This is the Preparation Menu.

The menu you get from Chapter 14E... Allows you to plan ahead for chapters.

PICK UNITS

Select who you want in the chapter. Green flashing names means that those units are compulsory (normally the main lord and sometimes a main character related to the plot).

TRADE

Trade items from one person to another.

FORTUNE

Pay money to get hints about the chapter. After Nils takes over, it is free and you can view support compatibility information.

CHECK MAP

View the map as it is when you begin the chapter. You can change the formation of your units, change options (available in battle as well) and save changes.

Well, that sums up the gist of what you should know before you begin. For more in-depth explanations of aspects of the game, refer to the Game Mechanics section.

~~~ 4) LYN NORMAL MODE ~~~~~ [0400]

The basic tutorial mode of the game is pretty simple, but still requires strategy to be able to be S-ranked. For Lyn mode, I provide only one method of S-ranking the chapter. Each paragraph indicates a new turn. A turn count is provided for the strategy.

Remember that the maingame consists of Eliwood mode/Hector mode, and Lyn mode is only a preparation stage that is not necessary on your journey (it IS compulsory the very first time through).

Starting a New Game

-----

Start a new file. You'll be prompted to edit details of the tactician (ie. the player; you) Select "Yes" to do so. Don't be an idiot and select "No" like I did <___< The default details are Name: Mark, Birth Month: January, Gender: Male. The weird symbol next to your name shows what affinity you are, which is a minor detail because it grants a very small bonus to hit and avoid to all characters sharing that same affinity. Frankly, the best affinities happen to be wind, thunder and fire, so take your pick. Or, be like me and choose your own birth month (Go Ice!). To help you out a bit, the affinities correspond with the months like so:

|                   |          |
|-------------------|----------|
| January (default) | LIGHT    |
| February          | ICE      |
| March             | WIND     |
| April             | THUNDER  |
| May               | WIND     |
| June              | ANIMA    |
| July              | FIRE     |
| August            | DARKNESS |
| September         | FIRE     |
| October           | ANIMA    |
| November          | ICE      |
| December          | THUNDER  |

The Japanese version was different because affinity was determined by a combination of birth month and blood type (apparently it is as common to know your birthday as it is your blood type in Japan – you know, superstition etc.). But anyway, after all that hit START and confirm your details. The story begins.

The game literally guides every single motion in this chapter and teaches the player about attacking, healing, moving and seizing the gate. Nothing very complicated here. EVERYTHING is rigged, so don't worry at all about death. The tutorial directs exact movement.

Sain idiotically attacks the closest brigand with an Iron Lance and gets hit. Kent teaches you about the weapon triangle. He attacks the brigand with an Iron Sword (newly acquired) and Lyn finishes the brigand.

Sain asks for another chance. He misses the next brigand even with a sword. Kent explains that certain terrain give bonuses, as with the woods that the brigand is in. Kent attacks the brigand. Lyn recommends moving into the north woods.

Lyn offers Sain a vulnerary. Then the tutorial continues teaching about trading items. Grab the vulnerary that Lyn already used and consume one. Make Sain move east. Kent should finish off the brigand he was dealing with. Lyn can move to attack the brigand just north of her.

It's up to you now! Lyn should finish off the brigand. Don't worry about getting hit, Lyn will survive. Make Sain and Kent congregate near the southern bridge if possible. Make Sain stay in front.

Next turn, finish off the brigand there with Sain. Kent can move up to near the boss. Lyn should trade with Sain for that final vulnerary if needed.

Move Sain and Kent to attack the boss. Lyn can't gain access to him, but he will die when he attacks back.

Send Sain to hit the wall with his Iron Lance. If the brigand is not dead, finish him with Lyn. Kent should advance towards the incoming bandits from the south, hitting one.

The bandits will attack Sain. Sain should break the wall. Send Lyn to finish the closest brigand. Kent should ward off the brigand in front of Sain.

Sain will be hurt badly now, but not dead. The brigand will suicide on Sain. Sain should move to attack Glass. Glass will deal minimal damage. Lyn should finish the brigand where Kent is if he is not dead. Send Kent south to confront the last enemy.

Glass will die. Sain nabs the vulnerable (and doesn't he need it!). Kent can quickly attack the brigand for a little EXP (it doesn't matter). Lyn should seize.

Lyn via the tutorial goes to the village and you get Wil, your first bowman. Wil attacks the mercenary across the wall, Florina finishes him. The tutorial stops after that point. Send Kent to double the archer nearby with an Iron Lance and send Sain as far east as possible with his Iron Sword.

As the enemies approach, send Florina to visit the village in the north west. Fly her back as far south as possible. Send Lyn equipped with her Mani Katti east a fair way. Send Wil as far east as he can go. Once again, Kent can double the lured archer (to Sain) with his Iron Lance. Sain should attack the brigand with his sword.

Send Florina east and south out of harm's way. Wil can start to pick off the brigand across the wall. Sain can finish the mercenary right next to him and Kent can attack the brigand nearby. Lyn should move near the cavalier duo.

Continue to attack the other brigands with the cavalier duo. See if Wil can kill the brigand who is weakened. If not, back him up with Lyn. Florina can standby, flying closer to the boss but still safe.

Finish the remaining enemy with preferably Kent. Send Sain to attack the boss. Bring in Florina. Lyn and Wil can trail behind.

Finish Migal with whoever you please. As long as he has ~5HP, even Florina can kill him. Try to utilise Wil and Florina to kill him.

The tutorial kicks in again. Lyn moves to the eastern side of the building and you have control over the others. I recommend sending Sain and Kent south to blockade the front entrance and send Wil as far west as possible. Send Florina diagonally adjacent to Lyn.

Dorcas attacks Lyn but misses. Talk to Dorcas. Dorcas will kill the closest brigand and receive a handy Iron Axe. Proceed with Kent and Sain to butcher the oncoming enemies. Kent will be able to double most of the enemies. Wil should have baited the archer from the south, so start picking him off. Send Florina in the north east where the brigand was.

Continue demolishing enemies with Kent and Sain. Try not to heal unless you are really dying. Send Wil who should have killed the archer to snipe the mercenary breaking the western wall. Send Florina to the far north east to the forest. Send Lyn south but clear of as many enemies as possible. Send Dorcas towards Natalie.

Clear a path with preferably Sain and send Kent out slowly so he is still handling enemies and blockading the entrance. Wil should continue sniping the mercenary. The archer will have attacked Lyn. If she is hit, no matter. Kill the archer with a double Mani Katti slash. Keep Florina occupied in the forest by stabbing the mercenaries. Continue sending Dorcas near Natalie.

Send Sain and Kent out to clean up the remaining enemies. Send Kent north to handle the brigand there. Sain should be dealing with any nearby brigands. Wil will have finished the mercenary, so just make him wait around. Dorcas can talk to Natalie. Florina can still handle the oncoming mercenaries, just watch her HP. The oncoming brigand would have been killed by Lyn, so send her to the forest to handle the boss. Dorcas can talk to Natalie.

Send Kent and Sain to handle the reinforcements of brigands. Dorcas can advance to assist them. Keep Wil in check but close behind. Florina should use a vulnerary at this stage. Make Lyn finish the boss.

Again, the western group can handle the reinforcements. Send Florina to meet Lyn so she can use a vulnerary. The mercenaries will advance to attack, hopefully some of them will die. At the end of your turn, the enemies retreat.

Send Wil and Dorcas near Lyn (they are hampered by terrain). Kent should attack the brigand up north. Send Sain to the north east with a Sword. Florina won't be doing much, just fly near Lyn.

The mercenary attacks Erk. Heal Erk with Serra. Send Erk to attack the other mercenary to the east. Lyn can finish the first mercenary. Send Wil and Dorcas nearby. Kent can demolish the brigand to the east for a well-deserved Iron Sword and Sain can help by either killing the mercenary that Lyn may not have killed or attacking the archer nearby, killing him.

Both the mercenary and another archer attack Erk. Send Sain to help by getting him to attack the mercenary. Finish the mercenary with Florina, preferably. Heal Erk with Serra and finish the archer at close-range. Send all the others nearby to swoop the boss. Send Kent to follow Sain.

Get Sain to attack Bug. If he is not weakened enough for Erk to one hit kill him (needs ~8HP) then rescue with Kent. Erk can attack the boss. All the others can follow. Erk MAY/MAY NOT kill the boss. Florina is a viable gamble to further weaken the boss.

Lyn automatically visits the village north. Matthew opens the building door to the east. Rath hits the first switch. Wil should snipe at the archer south from the western diagonal. Erk can snipe from the forest at the opposing diagonal, killing the mercenary. Send Dorcas and Serra near where Matthew and Rath are. Florina should visit the south eastern village for a Door Key and fly down one square. Send Sain up and into the building as far as possible. Send Kent to attack the mercenary near Florina.

Matthew will open the chest to reveal an Angelic Robe. Send Lyn near the building. Send Rath near the chest. Send Sain to attack the soldier to the eastern end of the building, dropping a door key. Send Serra to talk to Matthew. Kill the mercenary that Florina baited with either Erk or Wil. The other unused unit should go to meet with the others. Send Florina west. Kent should kill the soldier to the east guarding another entrance.

Sain should open the door nearby and head back to the congregation around the chest. Lyn should move closer. Move Matthew to near the chest as far as possible and the others (including Erk, Wil and Dorcas) should move towards the central congregation. Florina can open the door the soldier Kent killed was guarding and move away. Kent can finish the soldier there.

Matthew can open the final chest and get the Armorslayer. Kent should hit the second switch, revealing the boss and one archer as well as the last switch right above where the main army is gathered. Send Lyn to kill the archer. Use Dorcas to weaken the boss and finish him with Erk (who will double him). Hit the last switch with Rath. The passage is revealed and the chapter ends.

You need to select units. I choose to bench Rath and Kent, both are far too overlevelled. The tutorial makes Lucius attack the shaman nearby. Nils plays to him (NOT her). Finish the shaman with Dorcas. Erk should attack the brigand and Sain can finish him. With Florina, pick up Lucius and move south through the mountains and stay at the edge of the mountains in range of the shaman. Send everyone else east, keep Matthew and Lyn near the front.

The shaman attacks Florina. Some enemies are becoming attracted to her, but not for long. Dump Lucius near the shaman but out of Heintz's range. Move Florina away. Send Sain to take care of the mercenary. Send everyone else up, with Lyn in front yet again. Matthew can be either in front or behind Lyn.

The enemies have gone to take care of the main group. The shaman will target Lucius. Finish him with Florina and Lucius if necessary. Send Sain to the village to get Pure Water, rather useless but good for funds. Matthew can hit the brigand. Snipe him if needed with Erk and/or Wil. The others can come behind. Take advantage of Nils to move Lyn or some of the others up to help.

The choice is yours now whether to end the chapter sooner or later. I recommend waiting as you will still be able to S rank the chapter. To end the chapter quickly, sit Florina next to the boss and make Lucius hit Heintz with Lightning. To the north east, send Sain south to fend off the enemies from behind. With the combination of Wil, Erk, Matthew and Lyn in front start moving south across the mountains. Heal with the Serra and Nils combination as needed.

The chapter will end after Lucius kills Heintz, but before that; Sain can attack the mage nearby. Snipe the mercenary that attacked Lyn with Erk or Wil. Send Matthew quickly south. If you want a special conversation, wait around until Matthew reaches the house for a conversation with Hector and send Sain to kill the remaining shaman. Other than that, end the chapter.

Strategy: (Turn Count: 6)

It is highly recommended to complete this chapter, it is easy and helps in a lot of ranking aspects. Keep Lucius and Nils, continue to bench Rath and Kent. For ease of use, change formation so that:

- Sain, Matthew, Serra and Nils are in the west.
- The others are spread out. Make Florina east.

Make sure Sain's items are reasonably free to not get overclogged. Rather simple strategy. Send Sain to kill the soldier. Get Nils to play to Sain. Move Matthew to start breaking the wall. Serra should standby to heal Nils if he gets hit by the brigand nearby. Move Florina to the eastern hall. Move Wil to snipe the mage. Don't worry about him taking a beating. Move Dorcas and Lyn in the middle hall towards the brigand.

Nils might get hit. Heal as needed. Make Matthew finish breaking the wall. Sain can double the archer to death. Play with Nils to Matthew and let him loot the chest for a Hammer. Kill the brigand with a combination of Dorcas and Lyn if needed. Make Florina wait for the cavalier rushing towards her. Wil will be done with the mage. Move Erk and Lucius nearby. The idea is to get all those guys to level 5, because you are guaranteed 5 stars in EXP then (to boost your rank).

The thief opens up the door north. Steal the lockpick from him with Matthew. Sain can stick around behind. Start picking off the new soldier with Lucius. Wil, Lucius and Erk should be around level 5 by now. Florina will start getting assaulted by the cavalier. Use a burst of her last vulnerary and hit the cavalier with Erk. Lyn should head the middle path, Dorcas just behind. Send Serra a little way then play with Nils. Finally, move Serra east near the injured Wil.

The thief escapes and two magic users appear near Beyard. The soldier will be killed by Matthew. If not, finish him off now. Send Sain to take out the shaman with a double lance stab. Back to the middle path, send Dorcas to Hand Axe the advancing brigand. Finish off with Lyn. Florina can stay put while Erk moves up. Send Lucius up near Dorcas. Serra can heal Wil and Wil can stay near Lucius.

The mage aims for Sain from where he is. Double attack the mage with Sain, who is now wounded but not in danger of dying. Send Matthew near Sain. Send Lyn to confront the two mercenaries left behind. Approach behind her with the others (ie. Lucius, Erk, Wil and Dorcas). Time to get much needed EXP soon. Make Florina trail as well. Nils and Serra can come up to the main group to heal if needed.

Ouch! Sain takes a major hit from Beyard. Beyard will die when Sain attacks, but don't kill him yet... The mercenaries have badly damaged Lyn, but Lyn has in turn nearly killed both of them. Hit one of them with the mages if they are not level 5 yet (probably Erk). Try to kill the other one with Dorcas. If not, kill him with Wil and then Florina. Finish the boss with Sain. Matthew is a risky gambit to attack Beyard. Don't worry, there's time to level him up later.

Send Lucius to the east, but in Nils' playing range. Play with Nils and move Lucius towards the two magic units near the village. Move Florina in the direction of the ballista. Everyone else should move up, Sain and Kent spearheading the attack past the cliff towards the main path where most of the enemies are.

The ballista will target Nils. The mage might aim for Florina. Take out the mage with Lucius. Play with Nils and take out the shaman. Send Florina to attack the ballista with an Iron Lance. She will be able to take it out in 2 turns. If Nils is hit, make Serra heal him or just keep Serra behind. Make Sain attack the mercenary and Kent to stay nearby to blockade the enemies attacking Wil or Lyn. The others can stay behind the group.

The ballista aims again at Nils. Heal with Serra as necessary. Move Nils towards the village. Lucius can get the Lancereaver from the village. The archer down that looked like retaking the ballista is going for Lucius around the mountains. Enemies are attacking Sain and Kent. Sain will have taken out the mercenary. With a group effort, especially with the likes of Sain, Kent and Dorcas as well as Erk take out the two cavaliers. The soldier is easy picking for Lyn or Wil. Move the main group towards the other side of the ballista as possible. Florina will have been attacked by a soldier but she will kill him. Move her towards Serra to get healed next turn.

The archer is advancing towards Lucius as is another brigand. Send Lucius south and play with Nils. Lucius should attack the archer at close range to take him out. The brigand remains out of range. Make Dorcas spearhead the party. Sain and Kent can advance, but keep them away because they are both highly levelled. Send Lyn and the others who are NOT already level 5 forwards. By this stage, Erk should be level 5 and possibly Wil. Heal Florina with Serra and Florina can just move to meet the main party.

The brigand nears Lucius. Send Lucius to attack the brigand. If Lucius misses once, play with Nils and take him out. Soldiers from the south are coming up; Dorcas needs some EXP so feed him the soldiers. He'll reach level 5 very quickly. Keep the others behind Dorcas out of the soldier's range except for Wil and Lyn. Florina and Serra can move nearby and Sain and Kent should be moving past Dorcas but out of the range of the soldiers.

Finish the remaining soldiers with a combination of Dorcas and the others. Keep them all out of the range of the three units with reaver weapons except Sain, who should equip a sword but stay out of the brigand's range. Dorcas should have hit level 5 now, so he is not going to be used much. Keep Lyn near Sain but out of the three reaver units' range. Lucius, Nils, Florina and Serra should be nearing the main party. Send Wil near the ballista.

Sain will kill or weaken the first two units that have attacked him. Kill them both with the other units who need EXP. Send Wil to the ballista. Start sniping the brigand, Wil should be just about level 5 now. Sain should move to kill the brigand with a LANCE. Move Lyn near the boss. Everyone else's actions are useless, just make them wait around or something. If Erk is not level 5, send him near Lyn.

Take out the boss with Lyn or anyone else that isn't level 5. Snipe with Wil for EXP.

Items: Torch from the eastern village

Strategy: (Turn Count: 12)

First of all, ditch everyone who is level 5 and above. That means for most cases, Lucius, Erk, Wil and Dorcas. You're left with a handful of characters. Keep one cavalier, I recommend Sain. The party should consist of Serra, Nils, Matthew, Lyn, Wallace, Florina and Sain/Kent. Rath will stay benched. Give Rath the Angelic Robe (read: give NOT use) and the Hammer from Matthew so he has his hands free. Sain should be relatively free, keep only an Iron Sword and Lance that are not running out and a vulnerable. The others can stay the same, pass the Lancereaver from Lucius to Lyn for later purposes. The formation should be as follows; Sain north, the others in the middle with Wallace and Matthew near the front. Wallace will promote into a General; a very strong unit – but don't overuse him. The others still need EXP. Sain should visit the village, get the Torch and head north with a Sword equipped. Florina should sit on the fortress south (the reason is that no enemies can come when a unit is on the place where they spawn). Move Matthew onto the bridge to view the mercenary nearby. Play to Wallace with Nils. Heal Wallace with Serra. Send Wallace as far forward as he can following Matthew with an Axe equipped. Lyn should be behind Matthew.

Fog of war begins... Florina stays put. Send Sain further north. He'll be heading east next. Move Matthew away from the mercenary who was slightly injured. Take him out with Wallace (lance). Heal Matthew with Serra. Play to Wallace with Nils and make Wallace move forward again. Lyn should go in the forest nearby the fortress.

Brigands are attacking Sain. Finish the first one off. Cavaliers are rushing Wallace and Wallace will have severely weakened them. Take them out with any unit that needs EXP, preferably Matthew. Wallace should be advancing east still and Lyn should be ready for the brigand that is advancing from the south. Florina stays put.

A soldier attacked Sain, but died. Send Sain further east and heal him with the vulnerary. He'll be ready for the next assault. Kill the brigand who tried to kill Lyn with Lyn as payback. Move Matthew cautiously east to fend with the next weakened cavalier Wallace has taken care of. Serra and Nils should be healing Lyn and Matthew as needed. Wallace should be attacking another cavalier or moving north towards where Sain is.

Move Sain behind the brigand that attacked him and kill that guy. Wallace should have baited some other units. Move Matthew with the combination of Nils/Serra to take out weakened units while moving east. Lyn should also be moving to the far east. Wallace should take out any other unit left.

Sain is getting assaulted. Take out the nearby archer with a sword. Wallace can fend with the rest. Nils, Serra, Lyn and Matthew should be moving towards the gate. Using Nils, Matthew should be pretty close now.

The enemies north are decimated. Let Wallace clean them up while Sain moves towards the main group. Remember not to move Florina. Matthew should be next to the gate, but on the left side, not too close yet. Lyn and Nils and Serra should be just behind.

Move Sain ever closer. Florina stays. Wallace should move closer to the gate as well. Matthew is attacked by a soldier. Finish him with an armorslayer, heal with Serra and play with Nils to make him move down but not even one square away from the gate, maybe two south. Lyn should be behind a little.

Sain should be reaching the main group. Wallace can keep plodding and Florina stays put. Matthew is attacked by the other soldier. Take him out. The boss is visible, that unit is a paladin; another promoted and strong unit like Wallace. Move Lyn and play with Lyn. Move Lyn diagonally adjacent to Eagler. Heal Matthew with Serra.

Eagler attacks Lyn with his javelin, if she is hit heal with Serra. Move Matthew north away where Sain is. Wallace should be close now. Florina stays put still. Move Lyn right beside Eagler and attack with the Lancereaver, dealing some damage.

Lyn will be hit badly by Eagler and his Hand Axe. Serra should stand next to Lyn and heal. Nils can play to Serra so she moves away. Lyn should attack Eagler with her Mani Katti, doing MAJOR damage.

The process repeats as Eagler wields his javelin one last time. It hits Lyn. Stand on the other side of Lyn with Serra and heal (so that there is still space for Nils next to Lyn). Take out Eagler with Lyn and her Lancereaver.

Play with Nils. Seize gate.

Items: Energy Ring from the village south

Strategy: (Turn Count: 13)

Bring the following units; Matthew, Dorcas, Sain, Wallace, Florina, Lyn, Serra and Nils. The others are pretty much unnecessary. Keep Matthew in the front with Lyn. Anyway, start by rescuing Wallace with Florina and moving south as much as possible. The idea is to get Wallace to assault the base full frontal. Move all others forward. Assuming you have Sain and Matthew out in the front you can pick off the first unit you see.

The mage attacks probably Matthew while the other enemies are starting to approach. Send Florina to drop Wallace across the mountains near the fortress, so that she is still in the mountains; or she will die. Pick off the mage with preferably Sain. Keep Matthew heading forward. The soldier and archer don't pose too much of the threat. The others can keep moving, make sure to take full advantage of Nils.

A mercenary will attack Florina, but she will survive. The rain starts. Start killing units with Wallace. Move Florina far away, towards Serra. Matthew is severely injured by the double assault. Use Nils to heal Matthew with Serra and kill off the soldier. Everyone else should push up including Lyn and Sain up the front.

Wallace will be demolishing anything that comes his way. Conserve his axe for later. Keep picking off the cavaliers and reinforcements. Florina should continue towards Serra. The archer near Matthew is approaching. Pick him off using Matthew and Nils if necessary. Sain, Lyn and company should continue down towards the bridge.

The rain finally stops. Wallace can now move around; move him down at the same time killing units. The aim is to get Wallace to Lundgren. Florina will have reached Serra. Heal her and let her take Lyn and start moving back towards the mountains for cover, so Lyn can approach Lundgren's castle safely. Sain can start taking care of the two units near the bridge. Dorcas can help; use Nils as needed.

Wallace should continue his assault, but make the priority getting to Lundgren. Florina should be in the mountains with Lyn. Sain should be moving to protect the bridge from the oncoming assault, badly hampered by Wallace. Dorcas and Matthew should go down the other side of the village, where a shaman is waiting. Nils and Serra should be following Sain.

Wallace should be getting close to the knight near Lundgren. Florina should move out of the enemies' range, but closer to the castle. Sain should equip a sword and take out the incoming bandit. More reinforcements are flooding in towards him and Wallace. Serra and Nils should be prepared to heal him. The shaman will target Matthew and probably hit. Take him out with Dorcas and Matthew double-teaming him.

Wallace can take out the knight and any incoming units with his Axe. Florina should be coming closer to the castle, make sure she is not in range of the cavaliers. Sain will have taken care of the next cavalier on his path, play with Nils so he can attack the next unit. Move Matthew towards the village. Dorcas can stay put; his uses are done for the duration of this chapter.

The rain starts up. Move Wallace towards Lundgren. Florina should be moving further towards the castle. Sain in combination with Nils can kill the next unit. There shouldn't be more than one or two units left now. Serra can go behind Nils. Send Matthew to the village for an Energy Ring. Matthew's uses are over for this chapter.

Lundgren attacks Wallace for SOME damage, but not much. Send Wallace right up to Lundgren and attack. Lundgren will be getting hurt more than Wallace. Florina should be nearby by now, drop Lyn. Move Sain to kill the last units. Nils and Serra should be close at hand.

The Lundgren-Wallace battle continues. Wallace might be hurt reasonably, use a vulnerary. Lyn should move within two spaces of Wallace, but not in Lundgren's range. Sain can finish off the last enemies. Nils and Serra should be moving towards the castle.

Lundgren should be starting to die now. Wallace is dealing around 7 damage a turn, in exchange for 5 damage and sometimes missing. But, Lundgren has the throne. Lundgren's almost gone, so attack him again. The others can stay put except for Nils and Serra, who should be still coming towards the castle.

Lundgren will die when Wallace has attacked. Move Lyn to the castle and seize.
NOTE: There is a gaiden chapter in Hector Mode that requires Nils to be level 7. This will take a while and will rob the player of an S rank. The choice is yours whether you want that chapter or not. If this is your first time, ignore this because you will progress to Eliwood Mode.

Assuming you followed the guide, you just received your first S rank! Congratulations, though if this is your first playthrough you won't be able to see your rank yet (view your tactician rank in Battle History in Extras). The option opens for the player to continue playing. On to Eliwood Mode... Skip the next section if this is your first time.

~~~~~ 5) LYN HARD MODE ~~~~~ [0500]

This is just Lyn Normal Mode without the damn tutorial, which makes this mode only marginally harder. Since the differences are so minimal, I'll just provide the difference strategies instead of going over each chapter again. Refer to Lyn Normal Mode if you are looking for strategies to S rank.

 The same does NOT apply for Eliwood and Hector Hard Mode. There are HUGE differences between the Normal Modes and their Hard Mode counterparts (eg. different strategies and more thinking).

Prologue: A Girl From the Plains

Surprisingly, this chapter takes more turns now that you have no tutorial. Move towards the brigand. * You'll need to change your options all over again.

The brigand attacks you, Lyn might get hit. Move towards the boss and use a vulnerary.

Move right next to Batta, but don't attack. You might get killed.

Batta attacks. If you are hit, that's OK because you don't risk dying now. Kill him.

Seize throne.

Chapter One: Footsteps of Fate

Sain doesn't get a sword. Choose a cavalier and along with Lyn finish the chapter. It'll be slightly slower, but one cavalier will gain a lot more EXP. What I normally do is when Lyn gets her Mani Katti, give the cavalier with no sword Lyn's Iron Sword so he can attack as well.

Chapter Two: Sword of Spirits

You don't need to visit the houses, so this chapter will be faster.

Chapter Three: Band of Mercenaries

Do the exact same thing you did in Lyn Normal. You won't be forced to recruit Wil, but he comes out after some turns at any rate. Remember to give Lyn's Iron Sword to the cavalier with no sword.

Chapter Four: In Occupation's Shadow

Dorcas is slightly harder to recruit because he might hit Lyn. Talk with Lyn and make sure Dorcas gets that Iron Axe sooner or later (because he is not guaranteed that critical).

Chapter Five: Beyond the Borders

Do the same thing as in Lyn Normal. The difference is that the first unit Erk attacks won't necessarily die as easily because Erk may not have double attacked him as he did in Lyn Normal, so adjust a little and give a little more attention to that first archer.

Chapter Six: Blood of Pride

Do the same thing as in Lyn Normal, because it is sensible. You're wasting your time otherwise.

Chapter Seven: Siblings Abroad

The same thing as in Lyn Normal. Pretty much nothing has changed.

Chapter Seven Gaiden: The Black Shadow

Again, repeat the process of Lyn Normal.

Chapter Eight: Vortex of Strategy

Repetition again...

Chapter Nine: A Grim Reunion FOG OF WAR

You won't be forced to promote Wallace. Some people choose to train Wallace to level 20 and promote him properly, but for general S ranking purposes, just promote him as per usual. It saves the effort of beating Lundgren.

Chapter Ten: The Distant Plains

Nothing has changed.

Generally, everything becomes a lot easier for the player. Familiarise yourself with Lyn Mode, you'll be coming back to it sometimes. After one complete playthrough (through Lyn and Eliwood Mode) you can choose which mode to start off with and Lyn Mode is completely optional. If you want, you can skip it because it has little effect on the story. The only time you might want to come back is in Hector Hard Mode, a long way away. After the first complete playthrough, a player can also see their tactician rankings in Extras > Battle History.

~~~~~ 6) ELIWOOD NORMAL MODE ~~~~~ [0600]

The story continues, if the player wanted to continue playing. After the story a lot of things change. Anyway, the player should know that the true story and game start here and Lyn Mode is a cakewalk compared to the horrors in Eliwood and Hector Mode ;p (well, not really – not just yet). Eliwood Mode marks the beginning of a lot of things and if you think this mode is hard you are in strife! Having said that, S ranking this mode isn't all that easy.

AT THIS STAGE of the walkthrough, strategies start becoming a little more general. It will be more difficult for me to state a turn by turn guide, but I'll help by giving a general strategy that works. The key to success is to understand both the fundamentals of the game and the advanced mechanics, as well as a thorough knowledge of each chapter. These strategies are designed to S rank, remember that much.

Items: Visit the north east village for a Dragonshield.

Strategy:

Move up, across and down. The chapter is very linear, the village is easy pickings. Use Marcus and Lowen to take out the main forces quickly. Feed Eliwood and Rebecca EXP when the opportunity arises (Lowen will weaken most enemies but not completely kill them). Use Bartre's Hand Axe and just let Dorcas sit it out. Lowen should be making use of his Iron Lance, Eliwood should be using Marcus's Steel Sword and Marcus can smash the enemies with his Steel Lance. Weaken the boss with Bartre and Rebecca and finish him off with Lowen or Marcus if needbe. Eliwood should seize ASAP.

Chapter Twelve: Birds of A Feather

Objective: Defeat all enemies

New characters: Hector, Oswin (automatic Turn 3 from north east)

Items: Secret Book (visit the village)

Strategy:

Marcus should head to the village and for the rest of the battle, just wait around, rescuing as necessary. Eliwood should sit on the fortress, fending off incoming thugs. Rebecca can back him up. Lowen should lead the charge north with Bartre and Dorcas as they carve a way for Hector and Oswin. Hector should stay out of battle until he gets the Iron Axe from Dorcas. Dorcas can trade his Steel Axe to Bartre and sit out the rest of the battle. Move the two parties together as Zagan is approaching Eliwood. Eliwood and Rebecca will not have much trouble, but keep Marcus nearby to whisk Rebecca if she gets hit. When Zagan is closeby, let everyone except Eliwood on the fort stay back. Zagan will start getting hit. Lowen can help attack him too. If Lowen gets hit, rescue with either Marcus or Oswin, because Zagan can't do jack to him. In the end, team on Zagan and he'll go down in 2 turns, hopefully granting Hector some EXP, but don't use Hector for anything other than to kill Zagan when he is weak.

Watch out for the strong archer with a Steel Bow. Make your way south and west. Send Lowen in the lead with Hector and Matthew nearby. Stay out of Guy's range but try to dispatch of enemies. The aim is to get Matthew in the fortress south that is to the right, so that he is just out of Guy's range but he can recruit Guy. Matthew must also be relatively safe, so it may take a few turns. Meanwhile, Bartre should visit the north village for a Torch. After Guy has been recruited, Move your party in on the boss. Hector with a Wolf Beil will take him out in 2 turns. Serra should be at hand to heal. Make sure you purchase an Iron Sword so Guy does not need to waste his Killing Edge.

Lowen should go the right path up north backed up by Rebecca and Eliwood can handle the enemy on the left path backed up by Bartre. Hector should block the central west path when the snag breaks and Serra can just hang around. Marcus should rescue Merlinus and head south and Dorcas should do the same. Over the next few turns, clear out the enemies in those three main areas. Lowen should reach the village in the 6th or last turn. Hector, Eliwood and the others can handle the units that come in. Oswin will easily take out Puzon and the brigands.

Lowen can pick off the unit north near the northern village. Serra should be nearby. The others can stay put, except Matthew and Guy who should start moving south towards the axemen that will be reinforcements in the next few turns. Next turn, recruit Erk and Lowen should visit the village. Hector should start backing up Oswin as he makes his way west. After that, over the next few turns Marcus shall reach Priscilla. Erk should move to help out the main group, Lowen should give his Iron Sword to Matthew and Matthew should give his less-used Iron Sword to Eliwood. Guy should be starting to take care of the axemen that come around. The rain starts on Turn 5, Marcus should have just reached the village by then. Priscilla should move back to help the main forces. As the rain stops on Turn 7, Oswin and Hector are ready to confront Erik. Send Oswin forward just in Erik's range. The others should be closeby. Next turn, Finish Erik with Hector and Oswin and as the assault of units comes in, take care of them. Guy and Matthew are more than capable of handling the axemen streaming from the south.

NOTE: You first get the Battle Preparations Screen where you can see your rankings in this chapter. You should have (if you are aiming for an S rank) 5 stars in everything except tactics which should have 4 stars assuming you are following the guide roughly.

the village in the south west. With Lowen and Hector in the lead backed up by the others start moving east and kill anyone in your way. Down in Lyn's party, Sain and Kent can handle the majority of the units. Lyn and Wil should proceed with caution. The two parties should meet near the centre. Hopefully, lure the thief with Wil and keep him hitting Wil (for minimal damage) until Matthew can snatch that Lockpick and then you can kill the pesky guy. Take care in handling the mage and archer who are both quite strong. OHKO them with Lowen, Sain or Hector. Florina should have moved Eliwood around the action towards Bauker. Once the path is cleared, Hector should be taking care of Bauker. Bauker will go down fast, and all this should happen before the cavalier reinforcements have arrived. If they arrive, you know that you are being too slow. Seize the gate with Eliwood.

Strategy: Ditch the standard set of people, except this time replace Serra with Priscilla. If you're having problems fitting in Lyn's party, ditch an archer and take either of the cavalier duo as well as Lyn herself. Send Oswin down to the south west in preparation for the reinforcements. He will be Merlinus's guard. Everyone else should head up, take care of the knight with Hector and the archers will fall with teamwork. Florina should be kept away from the archers, Priscilla should be near the front but also away from the archer's range. Matthew should be going as fast as possible to the left room with a chest in it. The shaman will pose little threat. Make sure he has a vulnerary in case he gets hit for taking on the archer. The others should move up and across, take out the knights with axemen or a cavalier with a Steel Lance. The archers prove pesky, but work through them slowly but steadily. At this stage, Matthew should have taken the chests and should be moving towards the main group. Using Florina for quicker transport isn't a bad idea. Moving up through the passage, send Priscilla to Raven. Raven will not attack her. The green guards soon get released. You need to rescue at least one to access the next Gaiden chapter and there are different rewards depending on how many you save. I recommend saving just the one soldier, because you get the best reward; a Mine. 2 soldiers results in a Light Rune and 3 results in a Red

Gem. At this stage, funds isn't a major issue, but rescuing all 3 soldiers isn't such a bad idea. Hector, Erk and the cavalier should be tearing up the remaining knights up north. Matthew and Florina should be just about back from down south. Oswin will start taking on cavaliers from down south, but they will not be dealing much if any damage at all. Raven should have talked to Lucius, just wait around there. Shaman start flooding in the middle area; take care of them with Florina for some EXP. Lucius is a good choice as well. Take the northern two chests with either a Chest Key or Matthew and quickly handle Bernard with Hector, who should have little problems with him. Back him up with Priscilla as needed.

NOTE: Merlinus joins here if you did not go to Chapter Thirteen Gaiden. Also, an easy way to ensure you get the reward you want from the green soldiers is to rescue as many as you need (at least one) and let the others kill themselves (which they inevitably will do anyway). Watch out, because sometimes they manage to somehow kill Raven...

Strategy: Your rank should still be 5 stars in everything except 4 in tactics. There are two ways of completing this chapter; the fast way and the much slower but possibly more productive way. In both ways, make sure to visit the village nearby to get Canas and the Inn for a tip. For the fast way, send an able swordsmen (Raven, Lyn, Eliwood or even a cavalier) to carve a way for Florina. Just fly around the enemies without Fargus being alerted to your presence. Get Florina to perch on the north west village and you still won't be found. If you are found, all enemies start to move around. Anyway, Florina can talk to Fargus. DO NOT TRY AND ATTACK HIM! He will OHKO pretty much any unit you have. This fast method will conserve your rank. The riskier method is to send Oswin backed up by Priscilla forward creating a blockade. Fargus will order everyone to attack. Damian and a whole hoarde of enemies will be ripped apart by Oswin, but beware of the shaman. After the main enemies are gone, the others may want to go to the arena for some time, but your rank will suffer. The faster method ignores many of the treasures and EXP that can be found on the map, but it is the best way to aim for the S rank. Whatever you do, do not kill Dart! He will join you later.

Zoldam ("You possess... this much... power...?")
Shaman L18 w/Luna, Speedwings
HP 28 MAG 12 SKL 11 SPD 10 DEF 7 RES 15 LUC 8 MOV 5 CON 7

Items: Red Gem (kill archer), Pure Water (kill mercenary), Longsword (kill mercenary), Guiding Ring (kill shaman), 3 Vulnerary (steal), Pure Water (steal), Speedwings (steal off Zoldam)

Strategy: Again, there are two main strategies that can be employed. One preserves your rank, the other grants more EXP and items and is safer. The slower method is to merely wait around, tanking with units. Oswin, Lowen and Hector are great choices for tanking on the right side. On the left, pick off the mages with Lucius, Canas and Florina even. Eventually, make your way down to Zoldam with Matthew and steal off him. Rescue with Florina and run away, if Zoldam criticals you are dead. As reinforcements from the other ship come in, you can level up some of your weaker units. Make sure you buy a Heal for your healer, who will be running low and an Iron Axe or two for Hector and Oswin. Oswin should be ready for promotion by now. Even on an S rank mission, Oswin should be promoted so promote him if he is level 20. The S rank route is much more difficult. Once again, tank with Oswin and Lowen. With Canas, Hector and others take out the shamen, taking care to heal when needed. Florina should rescue Matthew and move around over the sea and be ready to drop when needed. Over the next few turns, make your way with Hector, Lucius, Canas, Florina and Matthew down to Zoldam. Steal with Matthew and rescue with Florina. This is where luck comes in; if Zoldam manages a critical on one of your units, you are dead. Next turn, gang up on Zoldam. Wolf Beil will severely weaken him, hit him with Lucius, Canas and even Matthew if he is low enough on HP. Just remember, you're taking a risk by attacking him. Once Zoldam is dead, the chapter ends.

Items: Mine (steal), Light Rune (steal), Torch (steal), Longbow (kill nomad), Torch Staff (kill thief)

Strategy: This chapter needs to be done within 15 turns to access the Gaiden Chapter, but that isn't difficult to do. Keep a sword-user (preferably Lyn) and a ranged attacker (Canas maybe?) to the right guarding the bridge. If you feel bold, you can advance across the bridge and take out the enemies there. Keep Eliwood and another sword-user to guard the western side. Florina should be standing in the centre, ready if Fiora goes in any direction. The healer should be doing the same, near Florina on guard to heal. Guard the middle section where there is a path for two snags to enter with a formidable fighter, such as Raven, Guy or maybe even Dart. Send Hector, Oswin and your cavalier down guarding the fortresses but attacking and killing enemies. Over the next several turns, this party will move south and east towards where Uhai is. The others should stay put. Once the snag is broken in the centre and enemies there are cleared out the fighters there can go and aid Lyn and the ranged attacker go west and south to take care of enemies there. Eliwood should stay put. Matthew can either stay with Eliwood, or go south and hopefully steal something (like a Mine). Uhai isn't hard to find, he's in the woods down in the far south east. Enemies will provide no challenge at all. Uhai will pick on Hector, so use him as bait. The cavalier (especially Sain) will be able to deal plenty of damage to Uhai. Oswin can hit Uhai very hard as well. Uhai will die in 2 turns maximum.

Items: Goddess Icon (visit the ruins south of starting point)

Strategy: Oswin and the archer should stay behind to take care of the pegasus knights that will approach. Send the pegasus knight straight to the ruins and grab the Goddess Icon. Canas and other casters should move down west attracting the mages. The others should move down east, so they won't be subject to many attacks from the mages. Over the next few turns, demolish the mages with the casters and the pegasus knight of your choice. The physical units lead by Hector should advance west towards the knights and brigands. The casters can even take care of some of the rogue knights who are advancing. Kishuna will make sure Aion is useless for the rest of the battle. As the pegasus knights approaching from the west attack Merlinus, take care of them with your archer and Oswin if necessary. Move towards the west, taking care of mages with units who need EXP. Hector can take out the knights and make his way north. Not many of your units can even hit Aion; your best bet is Lyn with her Mani Katti if she is appropriately levelled. Kishuna's guards stand still and give mountains of EXP, kill the knights with your cavalier and Hector. The snipers can slowly be killed by any unit in dire need of some EXP. Aion will take some time to kill, so don't be surprised. Kishuna will disappear the turn after you try to attack him. You probably won't be able to hit him, it doesn't matter in Eliwood Mode anyway. Don't try to attack Kishuna before Aion dies! Kishuna leaves soon after Aion's death, but as soon as Aion dies, seize the gate with Eliwood.

HP 34 STR 14 SKL 9 SPD 8 DEF 15 RES 13 LUC 2 MOV 5 CON 15

Items: 3 Door Key (kill), Chest Key (kill knight), Short Spear (kill knight), Antitoxin (steal), Armorslayer (kill cavalier), Halberd (kill Cameron), Brave Bow (chest in room just west of starting point), Blue Gem (western room chest on the left), Luna (right chest in western room), Guiding Ring (eastern room bottom chest), Barrier (eastern room upper chest)

Strategy: Your rank should still be stable (A). Picking units will not be a problem. If your cavalier is nearing promotion, bench him for one of the others. Start moving north with Hector in the frontline. Oswin isn't a bad choice either. Do not send a cavalier in the frontline, or he will be massacred by Cameron and his Halberd. Your mages, pegasus knight and archer should stay back. Others should follow the leaders, especially the lords and Matthew. You'll need to hurry to recruit Legault. The archer can attack the sniper. Heal the archer if he/she gets hit. Over the next few turns, move up north. The ranged attackers can handle the pesky mages and archers that pop up. Use a Door Key to unlock the door to the Brave Bow chest. The healer should move near the main action. By the time Legault unlocks the door to Darin, your guys should be closeby. At the fork, split your party up to corner Legault and when the thief with the Member Card is around, to corner him as well. Hector and Matthew should be heading up and around past Darin (stay out of his range!) and the others including a strong sword-user and a cavalier should move down south the other way. The chest to the west can be taken care of by Oswin, who can safely deal with the knight, get the Chest Key and take care of that. The guys who are south can start moving up, the flier can quickly trade the Chest Key with Oswin after he has used it and start heading back to the Brave Bow chest. After Legault is recruited with Eliwood or Lyn, use him to steal off the thief for the Member Card and if Matthew is at hand, he should steal it off. Kill the thief so he cannot steal anything. Legault will have opened the chests to the east for you already. As pegasus knights come from the south, use your ranged attackers (Canas, other mages, archer, your flier) to kill them. The Brave Bow should be taken. At the same time, move Oswin and Hector as well as Eliwood towards Darin. Kill Darin with a team attack using axes (Oswin and Hector will have little trouble) and seize with Eliwood.

NOTE: The Secret Shops are not worth it. Too expensive...

Items: Restore (visit village closest to starting point), Light Rune (visit the south west village), Elysian Whip (visit the north east village), Wyrmslayer (visit the south east village), Antitoxin (kill archer), Torch (kill cavalier), Shine (kill monk), Antitoxin (steal from brigand), Hero Crest (steal from Oleg)

Strategy: Use the same old guys as usual. Your rank should be fine, still a 4/5/5/5/5 (A) rank. This chapter is perfect for arena abuse if that is your wish, but this strategy caters for S ranking. Arena abuse is easy to do, just clear out the enemies and wait around. Oleg is down in the far south east, across the wall. The enemies there will not attack unless you are just on the other side of the wall, or approach past the wall. The infinite ring effect is useful, as well. Go to Secrets for more details. The only person you may want to exchange is Legault, who has much more solid stats in exchange for being a little slower. Keep his hands reasonably free, give Matthew the spare lockpicks and Member Card, you won't need them, at least not yet. Move the main forces east, once again Oswin, Hector and your favourite cavalier leading the way. If Hector is fully levelled, try to lead with Eliwood and Lyn instead. Canas should be running low on Flux, go down to the Vendor to buy another Flux.

Visit the villages with stragglers and quickly move to visit the villages far away. The north one is populated with brigands, send a swift cavalier there. The monks can be taken out with anyone really, give the EXP to weaker units. The southern village is guarded by wyverns, take them out with your mages or bowman (or woman?). Move quickly, but carefully. Once you are ready, send Hector and Oswin past the eastern wall. Legault can move just behind, making your vision much wider. Keep healers, mages, fliers and any other frail unit well out of the way. Oleg and his cronies will approach. Steal his Hero Crest and rescue Legault with Oswin who will not be taking much damage. Hector can attack him, if not DO NOT USE THE OTHER LORDS! They cannot deal enough damage and risk death. Keep everyone else out of Oleg's range, your cavalier can have a shot at Oleg as well if he is strong (almost level 20). If you are not careful, Oleg will snipe and OHKO weaker units so keep them all out of the way! Oleg will probably aim for Hector/cavalier. Finish Oleg off with any combination of those three units.

NOTE: Use the arena while Hector and company handle Oleg. This is a useful opportunity for Eliwood and other weaker characters to gain EXP.

Chapter Twenty One: Kinship's Bond

NOTE: I should really make mention some facts about the numerous allies you have. They make EXCELLENT ballista bait, but be careful not to get carried away. They are more likely than not going to die, but if they kill enemies, not only do they sap EXP, but any dropped items from enemies are automatically dropped by the allies...!  The green units are your allies ***

Objective: Defend Nils for 11 turns or defeat Eubans

Items: 3 Door Key (steal), Knight Crest (kill cavalier), 10000G (left chest in the south west), Brave Axe (right chest in the south west)

Strategy: Your rating will still be the same as usual. Your flier should be nearing promotion, which is a good thing because soon you'll be able to rush some chapters. This chapter, bring Marcus because this chapter is not very difficult to charge. Keep Isadora back, as well as Ninian. Eliwood too, if you want to support with Ninian. Move Legault left towards the door there but not in range of the mage. Hector should be moving in that direction, too. Lyn should move as far as possible down, because she will need to recruit Rath. Move Oswin and your trusty cavalier forwards as well as Marcus, hopefully with an axe, or a lance as second choice. The healer should be out of the ballista's range and you can move the others forward a little, just make sure your fliers are not in range of the ballistas. Legault can move to the door, Hector following. Heath will be lured towards Legault, making his recruitment easy. The others can continue charging and killing foes, make sure to disarm the ballista nearby. Lyn should recruit Rath quickly, and hopefully the allied forces don't sap too much EXP. After the ballista is disarmed, next turn recruit Heath and make him chase after the thief who is going for the chests. Hector can move to the main forces and Legault should follow Heath. The others can go down towards Eubans, killing reinforcements in the way. The path should be relatively clear now, Rath should be recruited and the others should be relatively safe. Next turn, the thief will take the 10000G chest. Kill him with Heath and Legault can follow towards the other chest. Keep killing enemies and getting ready to attack Eubans next turn. Finally, after Legault has taken the chest and Eubans is unguarded hit him with Marcus first and then Oswin, your cavalier can finish him if he is on low HP. If not, kill Eubans next turn. The chapter will end.

Items: Hero Crest, Light Brand, Filla's Might, Eclipse, Ocean Seal, Body Ring (search the desert), Guiding Ring (steal off Jasmine), Luna (kill shaman)

Strategy: I'm sure I don't need to tell you that the desert changes the move of characters. Mounted units are pathetic here and mages and fliers do best, so I recommend not bringing any cavaliers, train up your fliers and mages to promote. Even after rushing Eubans, your tactics is still 4/5/5/5/5 (A). Your pegasus knight will be almost at promotion which is going to be very useful. If you are not aiming for an S rank, the next Gaiden chapter is a little easier to get (700 EXP). You need to rescue Pent with your flier before he steals all the EXP, but the chapter will finish much slower. There are many items located in the desert, for a visual location guide go here:

Thieves are guaranteed to get the items, people with higher luck are more likely to get the items. If you are doing a ranked playthrough, you won't have time to get all the items, or even Luna. In fact, I don't recommend trying to get the Gaiden, because it has no adverse effects on the story in Eliwood Mode. But, if you do get it by getting 700EXP or more in this chapter, I have a strategy for the Gaiden. Anyway, on to the S rank strategy:

This chapter isn't easy to charge, so I wouldn't recommend it without a promoted flier. If you do, that's great; just crush both bosses with a sword. If you don't, like me, move Eliwood and Ninian down towards where Hawkeye will appear. Any decent unit like Raven can help your cavalier take out the units in the north, just nearby. Move your thief down where Eliwood and Ninian are heading, play with Ninian if you can to move. The aim is to go to the square 3 from the right of the map and 2 from the bottom for an Ocean Seal, worth a massive 50000G. Your mages can charge the archers and mages there for easy EXP. Your flier can help as well (as long as it isn't Heath). Over the next few turns, Pent will be destroying everyone in sight (forget about the Luna - unless you can rescue Pent in record time). After the thief nabs that Ocean Seal, play with Ninian and use the flier to move nearby to Jasmine. The other guys up north and down south should be finished killing enemies, move towards the boss. Eliwood should have recruited Hawkeye. Utilise Ninian by playing every turn for some EXP just in case you can get the Gaiden chapter. By the time Pent is done with most of the cronies and attacking Paul, your units should be ready. Lure the boss by standing just in his range with your thief. Next turn, Pent will finish off the boss and be dealing with other enemies. Steal the Hero Crest off Jasmine and kill him by team attacking with strong sword users such as Raven or other reasonable axemen such as Oswin or Hector. After Jasmine's death, Pent will very quickly take care of the others. You may even want to rescue Pent and provide some easy EXP for your fliers, so they are ready to promote.

Items: 3 Door Key (kill), either Silver Bow, Sword, Lance and Axe (kill) or Shine, Nosferatu, Shine and Recover (kill), Silver Blade (southwestern lone chest), Secret Book (chest below Kishuna's room), Berserk (south eastern lone chest)

Strategy: Yeesh. A hard chapter if there ever was one, this chapter will slow you down, so I would highly recommend skipping the chapter. On the flipside, you will get major boosts to funds, so your call. The key with S ranking is to balance and judge what is more important when so you don't get screwed over at the end. Make sure your two parties are evenly divided in terms of power, don't bring a single mage and bring both thieves, one on each path. Make your way around, break the walls down with the weapons you don't need, plan out which doors are best to open. The western chest can be taken by your thief, make sure you have a reasonable unit (Hawkeye is a good choice) to kill that druid there, who is actually able to still use magic. Unite both parties on the eastern path by breaking the wall and opening the doors in between. The eastern party should move down, kill all the promoted units carefully with those who need EXP and seize the chest. It is best not to go in the range of the four promoted units with Kishuna in their room. Work your way around, as time consuming as it is. The general might take some work to kill, use your stronger guys effectively. Move around and unlock the chest as well as the door to Kishuna's room. The four units in there disappear and instead four physical units wielding valuable Silver weapons appear! Take them out with whoever you choose (if a flier, watch for that archer). You'll get the Silver Weapons and complete the chapter. In order to get the alternate reinforcements (which you probably wouldn't – the prizes are worse and it is more difficult to do) you need to hit Kishuna with a strong bowman and a longbow. I wouldn't recommend it, Kishuna disappears and all those promoted magic units around can snipe you with their spells.

CHALLENGE: Try to kill Kishuna before he leaves. It's a very difficult feat, because it relies on an archer/sniper OHKOing Kishuna. Kishuna is not only fast, but reasonably strong too. Last time I checked, the best way to beat him is to raise Wil to a level 10+ Sniper and hope for a critical with the Longbow... RNG abuse might be required unless you are super lucky.

 There are two versions of the following chapter. It is determined by the level of your three lords (Eliwood, Lyn and Hector). If their combined level total is 50 or higher, you go to Linus's map, which means you are doing very well in terms of levelling your lords (which you need to do). If their combined level total is less than 50, you go to Lloyd's map, which some people prefer, because the character you get is different for each map. However, this is a wake-up call to those who get Lloyd's map that they need to put more effort into levelling their lords! (Level 50 is not difficult to obtain – Hector normally for me is level 20 while the others need to be level 15 or more.) ***

Turn 7 from the castle: +2 Myrmidon L10 w/Iron Sword
Turn 8 from fortresses near the castle: + Monk L10 w/Lightning + Myrmidon L10 w/Iron Sword

Boss Data:

Lloyd ("In the name of the Fang, I sentence you to death!")

Swordmaster L12 w/Silver Sword

HP 41 STR 19 SKL 21 SPD 22 DEF 9 RES 16 LUC 16 MOV 6 CON 9

Items: Earth Seal (visit the eastern village), Silence (visit the northern village), Orion's Bolt (kill the sniper), Red Gem (steal from the myrmidon)

Strategy: This actually isn't a very difficult chapter, you just need to know what you are doing. Split your party up – the majority of people should be going up, kill off the mages and prepare for an assault of mercenaries. The people who go east should be; the lords, Ninian and a strong high movement unit (cavalier, or Marcus is best). With Ninian, you can break the snag in that same turn and move across. Your flier should help take on the enemies north, if it is Florina soon you'll be ready to recruit Wallace. The mercenaries attack and Wallace must deal with a monk and the sniper. He'll be damaged, but not to worry, he has elixirs. Move the main forces up slowly, Oswin in the lead (promoted, of course). Keep two units on the fortresses at all times to prevent reinforcements. Your healer should be back, as should your thief and other secondary units. To the east, your cavalier should help Wallace out. If it is Sain/Kent, that's great! Soon, Wallace will be yours. Hector should purchase some supplies and move Lyn up if there is no one else familiar to talk to Wallace, use Ninian as required. Next turn, if your flier is Florina move her to talk to Wallace, or Lyn can do the same, or your cavalier. The point is, Wallace needs to be recruited at this stage. The eastern forces can continue moving up, make sure to visit the village for that Earth Seal with Lyn. With everyone else still back, move Oswin to kill more units. The major enemies to be concerned about for your secondary units are; the wyverns from the mountains and the ballista, which can OHKO your healer and fliers. With Wallace, move to converge with Oswin. Next turn, start moving Hector up north (with Ninian's assistance) towards the northern village. Wallace and Oswin should be nearing each other, disarm the ballista with Oswin but be careful of bumping into Lloyd (he won't move). Slowly, as enemies clear away, move the promoted units in place to get ready to take on Lloyd. Hector should be reaching the north village by this stage. Move your ranged attackers in to help Oswin and Wallace, Lloyd cannot attack back. When Hector has visited the village and you are ready, attack Lloyd with your ranged attackers, then finish Lloyd with Wallace and his Silver Lance and Oswin with any lance he has when necessary. Don't fret if you miss, Lloyd is a very strong boss. Heal as necessary. After Lloyd's defeat, the chapter ends.

NOTE: If you feel up to it, send some random unit to the arena who you can rely on.

Items: Orion's Bolt (far north west village), Silence (north west village on the right), Earth Seal (south east village), Red Gem (steal from wyvern rider)

Strategy: Nothing much to say, just move reasonably quickly. Either use Ninian to reach Geitz quickly or lure him with a high DEF unit (Oswin is the best choice). Use your units to stock up on items and visit the villages, don't leave units vulnerable and take out any incoming foes. Send a caster such as Canas west to retrieve the Earth Seal from the village (he can easily survive the Bolting). Move up and across quickly to avoid delaying. Try to train some of your units at least to promotion. The arena is another bonus, any unit who needs the EXP badly can go there. Linus is not difficult, he does not move BUT he has a ranged weapon. Take him out with some of your promoted units, if you are completing an S rank quest, your flier and caster (Canas presumably) will be promoted by now and Oswin has more than enough EXP as it stands. Nab any goodies you can and complete the chapter. The Secret Shop isn't worth the trouble. This chapter is much, much easier than Lloyd's map. Linus is a little too balanced to be of much threat, just don't underestimate him.

Wyvern Lord L10 w/Uber Spear
HP 60 STR 20 SKL 19 SPD 13 DEF 21 RES 6 MOV 8 CON 12 (+5 STR +4 SKL +9 SPD
+4 DEF +14 RES)

Items: Uber Spear (mine glitch), Knight Crest (steal), Luna (kill the shaman near Vaida if you dare), Hammerne (visit the south west village)

NB: Refer to the Secrets section for more details on obtaining the Uber Spear, if you are confused.

Strategy: A fun and easy chapter. This is your chance if you have a mine to use the mine glitch to get the Uber Spear. The best opportunity to do this is when the wyvern reinforcements arrive on Turn 7 onwards. After that, you can trade across the Uber Spear and those crazy boosts to Merlinus. Once that is done, make sure every enemy has no weapons and go crazy killing anyone remaining, including the Luna shaman. If you do not wish to use the Mine Glitch, do not attack or kill Vaida, because she will join you later on. Use the Heaven Seal on Hector, but if Lyn is level 20 promote her first because she has less durability. Make sure she has a bow. Now, move her right to take on the enemy mages there. As for the enemies to the left, while staying well away from Vaida's range move with Eliwood. The others, who are far ahead in terms of level should stay put. Down south where the main forces are, keep them there. Your mages and archers can pick off the brigands nearby. If you feel up to it, send a strong axeman west to face the wyverns. For the eastern group, their job is to deal with reinforcements from the south and make their way west towards the village. They should have high movement, so fliers and paladins do the job best. Over the next few turns, move Eliwood's group down south towards the main forces, the main forces can handle the enemies that appear. Stay out of Vaida's range. That Luna will have to be ignored unless you want to deal with Vaida. Lyn/Hector should make their way to the north east in preparation for reinforcements later on. The eastern forces should be converging with the main forces down south, killing enemies, gaining EXP and visiting the village for that handy Hammerne. There's nothing left to do but to sit the 11 turns out. Many of your units shall be promoted, try introducing some reasonably strong unpromoted units such as Rath and Dart if your EXP rank is suffering. By the end of this chapter, your rank even now will still be just on the verge of an S rank, but not quite there for tactics. Now that your flier is promoted, things become easier. Heath does well as a secondary flier for some EXP and some speed later on. If you want a second flier, train up now. After 11 turns of combat, Vaida retreats.

Once again, the chapter you go to next depends on something. If the combined total levels of your mages is higher than that of your physical units, you will go to Kenneth's map. If your physical units are more levelled up than your mages, you will go to Jerme's map. Both maps are long and no doubt, will begin to hurt your rank. Most people will get Jerme's map. NB: Promoted units count as level 20 + their current levels (ie. level 1 promoted = level 21 assuming you promoted them at level 20).

Strategy:

NOTE: Harken is much easier to get on this map, AND he is considered by most people as the better character. Your rank might be starting to dwindle a bit, I know mine had 4 funds and tactics now. Don't expect to finish this chapter in a hurry, it took me 25 turns when I was going quickly. To add to your woes, it snows on several of the turns.

This is what I did to finish the chapter quickly: start using Pent. Your unpromoted units should steal be helping to keep your EXP rank up. Move your main forces to blockade the enemies approaching from the east. This should include Lyn, a cavalier (Marcus and Lowen are good) and maybe your flier. Move your thief up north to unlock the door next turn. Have a sturdy sword user like Raven ready to go in. Give him some backup from your bowman and mages. Pent, on the other hand should head west and around the building through the mountains. He will have little trouble dealing with the foes there, just make sure he is using Thunder and not the valuable Elfire. Also, a Vulnerary is not a bad idea. The main forces should take advantage of Ninian as well. Next turn, the door nearby should be unlocked by the thief. Ruthlessly attack the warrior, hopefully killing him. Even if you don't it doesn't matter much. The main forces should advance slowly through the snow, killing enemies in the way. I recommend leaving a reasonably strong axeman (Hector is a good choice) behind. If not Hector, Marcus or Dart will do. Pent should make his way up to the archers there and the thief should follow later on. Over the next few turns, the room in the middle shall be cleared of enemies and the main forces will continue to advance. When the snow stops, charge forward but not recklessly. Pent will clear out the top and the thief should open the door nearby, unleashing many foes. Pent should target the snipers first, as they threaten your thief. The party down south should unite with the main forces except for that one axeman. The main forces should continue to charge as snow starts up again. It's a waiting game still, but Pent should be done up north before then and the thief should have made his way east to the chest up north. Pent should heal if needbe. Some wyverns would have come by now, just sit Pent in a forest. The thief must make his way down towards the central room for the chests there. When Harken or Karel appears, make sure the appropriate unit is ready to recruit them because they are strong units who can kill on occasion. Anyway, the thief should be taking the chests in the middle. The main forces should be split up again after Harken/Karel is recruited; A few strong guys go up with a Door Key and some others go down with a Door Key. Use your fliers and Ninian to enable the movement required to get your thief if needed. Over the final few turns, the northern party should open the door and clear out all enemies, including Jerme who is pathetically weak to any magician as well as most physical units. The southern party should open both doors, the left one first preferably to kill the general and his thugs and grab that chest there with your thief. The final room to the east contains a few mercenaries and a hero; very easy for a strong lanceman. Pent can handle the wyvern reinforcements, remember to heal if he looks in trouble. After the last enemy is put to rest, the chapter ends. The strong axeman was down south in case the wyverns headed for Merlinus instead of Pent.

NOTE: Snow starts at the beginning, stops in Turn 3 and resumes for the following durations: 7-9, 14-16, 21-23, 28-30

Strategy: This chapter is significantly faster than Jerme's, due to the fact you can actually seize throne. Many magicians are going to snipe you, so I suggest not bringing any unnecessary units with low RES (that includes those unpromoted units for EXP). Leave Oswin and some other low RES units to fend with the units above. This chapter is also much easier to get Karel in, but either way kill the promoted units up above the starting point. Move everyone else across, but make sure your healer (Pent happens to be a good choice at this stage) can access everyone. Ninian is not recommended for this chapter, just move everyone up through the narrow passage with stronger units in the lead. Keep everyone away from the range of the magicians, so hug the left side of the passage. Over the next few turns, while Oswin and co. wait around doing nothing, everyone should move up, taking care not to get in the magicians' range. By the time everyone is up there, the snow will have stopped. Move everyone across with stronger units who need EXP in the lead towards the throne. Keep someone behind for Harken or Karel. If Karel, you can kill the magicians' across the wall. The thief should snatch the chests north. I recommend leaving a caster who needs training (Lucius, or maybe Erk?) to snipe off the magicians' across the wall after you get Harken or before you get Karel. Quickly dispose of the thief that appears on turn 8 and wait around for the unit of your choice. Your thief should be snatching the chests. Every other unit should be taking care of the mages before the boss. After Harken/Karel is recruited and the chests are seized, move whoever needs EXP up to take care of the druid and his cronies, with Harken/Karel to back them up. Eliwood should be with the main forces to end the chapter quickly. Some reinforcements appear where Oswin and co. is, kill them quickly. Finish off Kenneth with either a promoted magician (like Canas or Pent) or a strong and reasonably durable physical fighter (Raven, the cavaliers, Guy, your flier). Seize throne with Eliwood to end chapter.

Strategy: A big map and a fog-of-war! Don't worry, it isn't so bad. Your rank should still be 5 except 4 in funds and tactics still. Very soon, your rank will be going up. You get many spoils in this place and your flier will come in handy. Split your party up, high RES characters going left led by your thief and Falcon Knight. To the right, send your unpromoted lords, Oswin and another thief if possible. A healer should be in each party; Pent on the left and the other on the right. Your promoted lord should head left. Down south, Jaffar will be more than capable of handling himself. Nino will be fighting with a monk. Anyway, use the thieves to open the doors left and right. Leading with your Falcon Knight on the left and Oswin on the right proceed south. The Falcon Knight needs to go quickly so the thief doesn't pilfer items. There are many high damaging heroes around, so heal as necessary. Slowly, work your way south on each end. Talk to Nino with Eliwood, Oswin should be moving west and blocking the thief from exiting after he pilfered items. To the west, your Falcon Knight should make sure the thief does not enter the room and then rescue Jaffar. Everyone should follow, but take care, keep strong units in the front. Use your thieves to snatch all the chests. Your Falcon Knight should proceed west, aided by strong magicians and other sturdy units. Ursula is down south on the west side, she will target your weakest units, Your Falcon Knight is strong to magic so she will be fine. Move your promoted lord down south, he/she will be the one to kill Ursula. Basically, move both parties together. Heal as needed, have Nino talk to Jaffar and then rescue Jaffar again. Move your Falcon Knight and Oswin to help out Zephiel. On the west, clear out the enemies there with strong units and quickly dispose of Ursula with your promoted lord, Canas and Pent. This will free up the spaces around for other units with weak RES to attack and gain EXP. To the east, move a reasonably strong unit (maybe your lords?) down south and kill the monk as well as the bishop for the Elysian Whip. By the time this is all done, the chapter ends.

Strategy: Everything is up to 5 except tactics... It's a big chapter, again this may hurt your rank a little but don't be too concerned.
Some people train Nino here, which isn't such a bad idea although it will slow you down too much. Promote your second lord here.

I recommend you move quickly across the paths and kill enemies. Send your flier (or fliers) to get rid of some of the more pesky enemies. These include the Bolting mage down south and the Berserk Bishop west. Yes, I know the Bishop has the rare Angelic Robe to pilfer, but funds isn't an issue at the moment. After a few turns of freeing up some space, rescue some stronger units to free up more space. Transport them as paths disappear. This will take some time, with all the reinforcements but it will be worthwhile. When you are entering Sonia's bolting range, send a strong magician to take the blows. After that, split your party up so the guys who need some EXP can go up and help the thief grab the chests. Use your fliers to make sure no one pilfers the bottom chest (man, I love fliers). Your stronger units, such as Lyn, Hector and Oswin can head down south to face up to the boss. Don't leave Eliwood behind, either! By the time they are ready to take on Sonia, the chests should have all been taken. A flier can get rid of the lone sage to the west. Sonia will go down quickly even though she is strong in all defences. Use Oswin and Hector to carve her up, hopefully Lyn will gain some EXP. If you are having a lot of trouble, use Canas and Luna to finish her quickly. Seize with Eliwood after the chests are taken to end the chapter.

NOTE: The paths across the water move around every few turns. My suggestion is to either stick it out on the original island for a while to gain valuable EXP, or rush the entire chapter with strong fliers and seize quickly.

Chapter Twenty Seven: Cog of Destiny

Reinforcements:

When portions of the map are walked on, reinforcements appear for the turns 1,3,5 and 7 after that.

Cross the bridge north, fortresses near paladin:

+ Nomad L14 w/Steel Bow + Paladin L8 w/Silver Lance + Cavalier L14 w/Steel Lance

Cross the bridge north west, fortresses near general:

+ Knight L14 w/ Silver Lance + General L8 w/Steel Lance + Knight L14 w/Javelin

Cross the bridge west, fortresses near hero:

+ Mercenary L14 w/Steel Sword + Myrmidon L14 w/Steel Sword

+ Hero L8 w/Steel Sword

When units move past the mountain range, south east area:

+ Vaida +2 Wyvern Rider w/Javelin

Turns 1,2 and 4 thereafter:

+3 Wyvern Rider w/Javelin, Steel Lance and a few Poison Lances

Boss Data:

The boss depends on who you fought in Chapter 23. If you have already fought Lloyd, you will face Linus and vice versa.

Linus ("I will kill anyone who aids my brother's killers! Nino, that includes you!")

Hero L18 w/Light Brand, Iron Rune DROPPED

HP 58 STR 24 SKL 20 SPD 15 DEF 19 RES 15 LUC 14 MOV 6 CON 14

Lloyd ("Don't cry, Nino. You must live for the future. I am bound to this course. Kill me, and don't look back.")

Swordmaster L18 w/Light Brand, Iron Rune DROPPED

HP 52 STR 20 SKL 23 SPD 21 DEF 15 RES 19 LUC 16 MOV 6 CON 9

Items: 2 Antitoxin (steal), Mine (steal from hero), Elixir (steal from nomad trooper), Guiding Ring (steal from sniper), Light Rune (steal from warrior), Iron Rune (kill the boss)

Strategy: A big chapter, but really easy. Keep your lord put. Move your casters to defend the north bridge from the oncoming units. Move Oswin west to kill those enemies there. Move your fliers west as well to disarm the ballista and visit the village (Use Delphi Shield if you like). Move Hector, Lyn and some other strong units (preferably people who can use axes, such as Harken, Raven, Bartre etc.) to meet the main assault of armoured foes. Over the next several turns, continuously kill units, heal as necessary with the healers, visit the villagers with the fliers, disarm the ballistas, wreak havoc with Oswin in the west and Hector and Lyn in the east and you may also want to stock up on a few weapons (you'll be running low by now). When Vaida makes an appearance, recruit with Eliwood and kill the wyverns that appear there with anyone (especially Eliwood if he is not fully levelled). Anyway, Hector, Lyn and co. can make their way to the fortresses north and Oswin and the fliers can demolish foes in the east. When you get up to the boss, it is better to attack him from afar if you can, otherwise take him out with strong lancemen, such as Oswin. Use the lords if necessary. After all the reinforcements are gone, this exhaustive but fun chapter is over.

NOTE: Lloyd has a special conversation with Nino. He will not attack Nino, but will start moving! I don't recommend talking to him. Linus will kill anyone and everyone INCLUDING NINO, so don't bother trying to reason with him (although the option to talk with him is still available).

Items: 3 Elixir (kill), Rapier (kill myrmidon), Tomahawk (kill Georg), Vulnerary (steal), Pure Water (steal)

Strategy: A nice, short, easy chapter for Eliwood to get some training now that he is promoted. With five units, I suggest taking very strong units on each side (one side, Hector and Lyn, the other, Oswin and your flier?). They should not be bogged down by many items, because all the goodies you get are very nice for funds. Move everyone up. Eliwood should wait for the others for support when he is near Georg. Use your tanks to absorb Georg's first blow and start picking him off with Eliwood and the others. If you can trick Georg into heading to one side and waiting on the tile he is guarding, the chapter ends, but I recommend killing Georg with teamwork for that Tomahawk and massive EXP.

Chapter Twenty Nine: Sands of Time -----

Sniper L19 w/Silver Bow, Longbow

Items: Swordslayer (kill sniper), 3 Lockpick (steal from thieves), Dragonsshield (centre room, left chest), White Gem (centre room, right chest), Body Ring (southern lone chest)

Strategy: Another easy but tedious chapter. Post some strong units who could do with some EXP down south. I recommend Oswin at least. Up north, there are plenty of pesky archers, everyone else should be there. Your casters can handle themselves as can most of your physical units. Heal as necessary. Your lords should be in the thick of the action especially newly promoted Eliwood. Send a strong magician such as Canas down south to fend with the swordmaster. Your southern party will be the ones in danger, but Denning is weak and easy to beat. Just team him with Oswin and other strong physical units. Over the turns after Denning's demise, clean up the enemies especially with the lords, use your thief to steal whenever possible (make sure you take the chests) and that's all there is to the chapter.

Items: Nosferatu (kill druid), Talisman (southern ruins), Set's Litany (central ruins)

Strategy: Looks hairy, doesn't it? Massive chapter, massive reinforcements. There are two ways of completing this chapter. The first way is to divide the party into three groups, one crosses the divide, one goes up the long way and one goes across and up. This method gives massive EXP, but for ranking purposes isn't good. A) EXP will stifle ratings for next chapter B) The method is a little slow. To S rank, you need to hurry. That 4 in tactics, must hit 5! Here's how: Split the party, take many unpromoted units but a few of your staple hit men (Lords, Oswin etc.). You split the group up, high movement characters move up the western path, killing anyone in their way. To the east, send your tanks, like Hector and Oswin who should near level 20. Also, give EXP to your other prepromotes so that Hector and Oswin are not at level 20 yet. If you have two fliers, make one rescue Canas and the other rescue Eliwood and fly in the direction of the boss. Otherwise, rescue Canas and Eliwood can travel quickly through the divide. Your casters should be in the divide and your healer should follow whichever group you think needs the most help. It's a time consuming chapter, but kill as many units with unpromoted units as you can. Your fliers should drop Canas and Eliwood right in the fortresses near Limstella. They should be aptly equipped and strong (level 10 promoted +). If Eliwood is trailing, let him do so. Basically, as your units go around recruiting, visiting villages and killing like mad, Canas should handle the boss with Luna. After she goes down in maybe 2 turns, seize quickly with Eliwood.

Final Chapter: Light Part I

NOTE: A reminder that for supporting purposes, the two parts of Light are considered two separate chapters (and opportunities to support). At this stage, DO NOT GO CRAZY WASTING WEAPONS, regardless that it is the Final Chapter. Your funds rank will go down the drain, which you DO NOT WANT so close to your goal.

Strategy: All the morphs of past foes come to life! The key to this chapter is to kill each turn without letting the bosses overwhelm you. Your rank should be S by now. To maintain it, use only the legendary weapons (equip each one BEFORE the battle to the right owner) and Silver Weapons if necessary. And also, Luna is a good choice. Don't use the treasures the bosses drop you, they are worth a LOT. Take out each one in turn, Uhai can be dealt with with many people; Lyn and Canas are good choices. Uhai is fast and deadly, he is one of the more difficult bosses. Send Athos north and when Kenneth appears equip Aureola. Athos will kill all of those enemies there. When Brendan's door opens, send a strong swordsman like Eliwood to take him out. Darin will get smashed by Hector and Armads, so move him there. Don't forget to utilise Nils to get ready for the next room opening. When Ursula's door opens, kill Ursula with Canas and Athos; Jerme can be ignored he is so laughable. Move everyone to the centre as Lloyd and Linus approach. Take out Linus with Luna and other strong projectile attacks. Linus is the weaker of the brothers and Lloyd will be weakened without his A support with Linus. Finish Linus with Hector and his Swordslayer or any combination of projectiles. The door to Nergal will open; one of the Druids has a Berserk so I hope you brought that Restore! Send Athos to take down the lackies there and kill Nergal with the lords and their legendary weapons, with Athos to back up if necessary. The lackies down south can be taken out with Oswin or the fliers. Remember to try to give EXP to those who are not level 20.

Items: --

Strategy: Use Nils to get Canas up there and attack with Luna. Canas alone will reduce the dragon to 70 odd HP. Athos should also attack with Aureola and he will deal 20 damage or so. Hector can deal a lot of damage, as can Eliwood. Finish the dragon with one of those guys. If you want to be cautious, send Athos there first, heal and next turn gang up on the dragon. It gives no EXP, so it doesn't make a difference who kills him. Watch out for the enemies who are sniping at your weak units.

NOTE: Eclipse has a small chance of halving the dragon's HP, making him easy to kill.

Due to popular demand, I've added some more information on the final boss.

- The dragon DOES NOT MOVE. Despite this fact, it proves to be fearsome with its 3 square range forward. Don't let that catch any of your weaker units off-guard; make sure you either rescue or use Nils to get them out of the way!

- Watch carefully for the long-range magicians trying to target your weaker units with Bolting, Purge etc.
- If you have neglected Canas or the lords for some reason, do not fear! There is hope as long as Athos is there! Athos can single-handedly remove the final boss. Here's how:
Turn 1 - Move Athos to attack the dragon with Luna/Aureola. He will be damaged during the exchange. Heal with a healer moving RIGHT BEHIND Athos. Use Nils to play to this healer and MOVE THE HEALER OUT OF THE DRAGON'S RANGE!
Turn 2 - Athos will be attacked again (during the enemy phase) and will have damaged the dragon further. Heal with your healer and move him/her out of the way. DO NOT ATTACK WITH ATHOS THIS TURN!

Rinse and repeat this strategy for a relatively fast and easy way to kill the final boss. Watch for those snipers, because they will most likely be aiming for Nils.

HECTOR MODE CHAPTER ONLY

New characters: Hector (automatic), Matthew (automatic)

Wire

HP 25 STR 9 SKL 6 SPD 3 DEF 13 RES 3 LUC 3 MOV 4 CON 13

Items: 2 Vulnerary (kill enemies), Red Gem (take chest), Vulnerary (steal)

Strategy:

Unlock the door south and use Hector and his Hand Axe to clear the way. Matthew can help weaken enemies if necessary, but his main job is to stay clear. Steal what you can and make your way at a reasonable pace west. Take the chest for a handy Red Gem and continue along. If you want, unlock one of the doors leading north so Hector can gain some more EXP. Wire will not be able to be beaten successfully with Hand Axes; steal his vulnerary and whack him a few times with good old Wolf Beil.

Chapter Twelve: Birds of A Feather

Objective: Defeat all enemies

New characters: Serra (automatic), Bartre (automatic), Dorcas (automatic), Eliwood (automatic), Lowen (automatic), Rebecca (automatic), Oswin (automatic), Marcus (automatic)

Boss Data:

Zagan

Fighter L9 w/Steel Axe

Items: Secret Book (village)

Strategy: Keep Oswin in the frontline in Hector's party. Hector should not be wasting his Wolf Beil, keep him away from the action. Matthew should be killing the brigands and Serra can heal them as necessary. In Eliwood's party, Marcus should visit the village. Eliwood can charge forward, as can Bartre and Dorcas. Lowen should be charging north. Zagan now aims for Hector, so try to get Eliwood's party up north, or move Hector and company south. Give Bartre's Iron Axe to Hector and Dorcas's Steel Axe to Bartre. Eliwood and Rebecca can handle stragglers to the south. Defeat Zagan with a combination of Lowen, Oswin, Matthew (who should be decently levelled) and Hector to finish him off.

Chapter Thirteen: In Search of Truth

Objective: Seize gate

New characters: Guy (enemy – recruit with Matthew)

Boss Data:

Boies

Knight L13 w/Steel Lance

HP 27 STR 12 SKL 8 SPD 4 DEF 13 RES 7 LUC 1

Items: Torch (northern village), Mine (southern village)

Strategy: The chapter has hardly changed since Eliwood, with the exception of some pegasus knights floating around, just like in the previous chapter. Move Bartre west, keep Dorcas and Marcus put. The rest of the guys can go down south, keep Lowen and Hector in the lead. Work your way down to the point just outside of Guy's range of attack. Oswin, Hector and Lowen should be hammering enemies and Rebecca should stay behind, picking off enemies if convenient. Serra should also be well and truly back. Bartre can visit the north village and Hector can visit the south village. Manoeuver Matthew down to the right fortress down south and next turn he can talk to Guy without Guy attacking him. Clean the other enemies up with any of your main forces. Try to train Eliwood a little. Purchase an Iron Sword for Guy. With Serra's support, Hector can take out Boies with his Wolf Beil and seize.

Chapter Thirteen Gaiden: The Peddler Merlinus FOG OF WAR

Boss Data:

Puzon

Mercenary L10 w/Steel Sword, Vulnerary

HP 26 STR 10 SKL 8 SPD 9 DEF 6 RES 6 LUC 5

Items: 5000G (visit village)

Strategy: Almost a replica of Eliwood Mode. Oswin takes the west side, Matthew and Guy take the east side. Dorcas stays put, Marcus rescues Merlinus and heads south. Lowen takes the right path north backed up by Rebecca. Eliwood takes the left path north backed up by Bartre. Hector guards the path west in the central area. Serra can stay in the middle. Over the next few turns, Oswin must head north, confronting reinforcements in the way and defeat the boss who is in the north west. Guy and Matthew can handle the reinforcements in the east, stand on fortresses if possible. After the enemies are cleared out to the north, move the main force up. Lowen should break the snag east and visit the village. Hector, Eliwood, Rebecca and Bartre backed up by Serra can handle incoming enemies.

Chapter Fourteen: False Friends

Objective: Defeat all enemies

New characters: Erk (ally - talk with Serra/Priscilla), Priscilla (visit the southern village)

Boss Data:

Erik

Cavaler L14 w/Silver Lance DROPPED

HP 28 STR 8 SKL 9 SPD 8 DEF 8 RES 9 LUC 6

Items: 3 Vulnerary (steal), Iron Blade (northern village), Silver Lance (kill Erik)

Strategy: Make sure Marcus is using a weapon that is NOT his Silver Lance. I recommend Bartre's Steel Axe or Hand Axe. Marcus should charge down in the south west to the village to recruit Priscilla. Lowen and Serra should head in the north west to help out and recruit Erk. Oswin, Hector and Bartre should be able to handle the enemies near the main forces with their lances/axes. Guy and Matthew should head south, one on each side of the bridge to wait for oncoming brigands. Over the next few turns, Erk should be recruited and heading towards the main force. Marcus should rush through the enemies and reach Priscilla's village. Hector and Oswin can move to the east. Bartre and Rebecca can standby because later on there are pegasus knights to be taken care of. Eliwood should move closer to Guy and Matthew to help them when pirates come around. By the time the rain begins on turn 5, Priscilla will be recruited and Hector and Oswin will be well on their way to meet Erik's forces. As soon as the rain stops on Turn 7, Hector and Oswin can charge to meet Erik, keep Oswin in the front. Meet the reinforcements with appropriate units that have been kept to the east and south. Marcus can help Hector and Oswin if they are in danger. This chapter is easy and should end soon, just watch for Erik and his strong Silver Lance.

Chapter Fifteen: Talons Alight

New characters: --

Boss Data:

Items: Door Key (steal from mercenary), 2 Vulnerary (steal from mages), Steel Bow/Longbow (kill Sealen), Silver Axe (left chest in southern room), Mend (right chest in southern room)

Strategy: Our first Hector only chapter. It's not bad, I guess. The spoils are interesting. I recommend you bring Priscilla and not Serra, and that you ditch Marcus as well as Bartre and Dorcas. They can be your item carriers. To the east, place Oswin there as a tank. Sealen will aim for that side, so Oswin is the best choice. Sit Eliwood on the throne, he's kind of useless for this chapter. Just below the throne I recommend placing Priscilla, Rebecca and Guy. To face the oncoming enemies, have Lowen and Hector in the frontline below. Erk and Matthew should be just behind. For the duration of the chapter, Oswin can stand there and chase Sealen without exposing the entrance on that side. Priscilla should act as the healer, presumably she got Serra's Heal staff. Lowen and Hector can rip through the main forces, Guy and Rebecca providing a little assistance. Erk should blast the knights away, because only Hector can do similar amounts of damage. Matthew should pursue after the chests when the coast is clear. Overall, this chapter is not very difficult, just watch out for Sealen sniping your units with his massive range.

Chapter Sixteen: Noble Lady of Caelin

Objective: Seize gate

Boss Data:

Items: Red Gem (western village), Heavy Spear (eastern village), Horseslayer (kill cavalier), Thunder (kill mage), 3 vulnerary (steal), Lockpick (steal)

Strategy: Same as before, barely any changes except for pegasus knights. Rebecca can get a workout from them. Florina should visit the village just south. Move your forces east, Lowen, Hector and Oswin taking most of the blows. Erk, Guy and Matthew as backup with Priscilla healing. Lyn's forces should move up, the cavalier duo attacking the enemies nearby, visiting the village as well. Give Lyn some EXP if you can spare it. Make your way north, be careful of the Mage with Thunder and the archer with the Steel Bow, they are strong. There is now a ballista there, so disarm it quickly before you think of using fliers. Take down the boss with Hector and any old axe (Iron Axe will do). Seize when Bauker is dead.

Chapter Seventeen: Whereabouts Unknown

Objective: Seize throne

New characters: Raven (enemy – recruit with Priscilla), Lucius (ally – recruit with Raven)

Boss Data:

Bernard

General L1 w/Steel Lance/Javelin

Items: 2 Door Key (kill), Chest Key (kill archer), Hammer (kill fighter), 2 Door Key (steal), Vulnerary (steal off nomad), Lockpick (steal off thief), Unlock (southern room, left chest), Hero Crest (southern room, right chest), Knight Crest (northern room, left chest), Silver Sword (northern room, right chest)

Strategy: Remember; those soldiers need to be rescued. Oswin should head west to meet the reinforcements. Send the other units north, Matthew should go west to meet the enemies there and nab the chest. Florina can accompany him so she can quickly transport him north when it is time. Raven will come to you this time, so just proceed forward with caution. This may complicate his recruitment a little because the archers will be in the way when Priscilla walks to him. I recommend at least one cavalier to charge through the ranks because a pesky little thief will try to pilfer the northern room and its chests, especially that Knight Crest. Just keep heading up, when Raven is recruited make him go east to recruit Lucius. Lucius should handle the shamen that appear in the central room. After Matthew takes the two bottom chests, use Florina to transport him quicker up to the northern room. The cavalier should have skewered the thief. Try your best in using the other lords, but what you'll find is that Hector will smash all the knights along the way. Oswin can handle the reinforcements pouring from the south west. Hector can remove Bernard with ease with his Iron Axe. If Bernard is causing trouble, the Wolf Beil will teach him a lesson. Seize after Bernard goes down.

Chapter Seventeen Gaiden: The Port of Badon

 Save at least one of the green soldiers in Chapter 17H to unlock this ***

Objective: Reach Fargus

New characters: Canas (visit the village next to the Inn)

Boss Data:

Fargus

Berserker L18 w/Silver Axe

HP 58 STR 24 SKL 15 SPD 14 DEF 18 RES 17 LUC 14 (DON'T EVEN TRY IT)

Damian

Paladin L5 w/Steel Lance, Steel Sword

HP 34 STR 12 SKL 7 SPD 5 DEF 14 RES 13 LUC 2

Items: 3 Vulnerary (steal), Short Bow (village to the west of starting point), Devil Axe (southern village near starting point), Sleep (village to the north in the centre of battle), Lancereaver (village to the far north)

Strategy: Again, little difference from Eliwood Mode. The two main differences are; Damian and the Black Fang charge your army even if Fargus doesn't and Damian is now equipped with a Steel Sword and Steel Lance. I recommend keeping Oswin in the front, recruit Canas with someone and the main forces are well and truly behind Oswin. Priscilla should be right there as well. Send Lyn or Eliwood up and around to handle the pirates in the way. Let Damian attack Oswin and heal as necessary. Make sure no one else is in his range. Eliwood or Lyn should move north and around, clearing the way for Florina to fly undisturbed. When Damian and the other Black Fang go down, Florina should be on the village ready to fly to Fargus. Talk to Fargus, NOT attack him to end the chapter. It is GAME OVER if you attack him.

CHALLENGE: Kill Fargus. It's GAME OVER afterwards, but the thrill of killing him (and his godly stats) is too good an opportunity to pass.

Chapter Eighteen: Pirate Ship

Objective: Survive for 11 turns or defeat Zoldam

New characters: --

Boss Data:

Zoldam

Shaman L18 w/Luna, Speedwings

HP 28 MAG 12 SKL 11 SPD 10 DEF 7 RES 15 LUC 8

Items: Pure Water (steal), Longsword (kill mercenary), Elysian Whip (steal from pegasus knight), Speedwing (steal from Zoldam), Guiding Ring (steal from shaman)

Strategy: Not much difference in this chapter, just that pegasus knights are swarming around and items are placed a little differently. Oswin and another meaty unit to the east to block the way there, Canas and Lucius to the west to handle the mages and your lords can help. Priscilla should heal as necessary, make sure you stock up on weapons if you are running low. Oswin will be on the verge of promotion now. Use Florina and your archer to punish the pegasus knights. Hector should make his way with the magicians through the shaman hoardes towards the boss. Matthew should be focussing on stealing whatever comes his way. Watch who you kill carefully. When you reach Zoldam, hit him with units with high LUC and then hammer him with your big attackers like Hector. If he criticals with Luna, your units are certainly dead.

Chapter Nineteen: The Dread Isle FOG OF WAR

Objective: Defeat Uhai

New characters: Dart (automatic), Fiora (ally on Turn 2 – recruit with Florina)

Boss Data:

Uhai

Nomadic Trooper L7 w/Killing Edge, Longbow, Short Bow

HP 33 STR 15 SKL 13 SPD 12 DEF 12 RES 13 LUC 4

Items: Torch (kill units, steal from units), Torch Staff (kill thief),
Mine (steal from cavalier), Nosferatu (kill shaman), Longbow (kill nomad)

Strategy: Move Oswin, your strongest cavalier and Hector down south as one group. Park your lords around the centre as well as Priscilla and Florina. If you are daring, send a party of your archer and a strong unit east across the bridge. Keep at least two reasonable units south blocking the intersection pathway of two snags. To complete the chapter, merely move your souther party to Uhai in the south west. Uhai is stronger now, with Killer weapons and he moves. For the time it takes to reach him, your main forces will fend off pirates that they come across. Make sure you recruit Fiora quickly. If you venture east, you'll encounter some pirates, nomads and a shaman who drops Nosferatu. Soon, the intersection of snags will break and some cavaliers and pirates approach. Dispose of them with whoever is left (lords etc.). Anyway, once you reach Uhai kill him with Oswin and Hector only if Uhai is equipped with his bow. That Killing Edge can hurt.

Chapter Nineteen Gaiden: Prisoner of Magic

NOTE: Kishuna's magic seal barrier nullifies all magic in his/her/its range. Only attempt to kill Kishuna if you raised Nils to level 7 or more in Lyn Normal/Hard mode.

Defeat Uhai in 15 or less turns in Chapter 19H

Objective: Seize gate

New characters: --

Boss Data:

Aion

Sage L4 w/Bolting, Thunder

HP 32 MAG 12 SKL 9 SPD 12 DEF 6 RES 16 LUC 9

Kishuna

Magic Seal L1

HP 50 MAG 0 SKL 0 SPD 24 DEF 13 RES 0 LUC 0

Items: Goddess Icon (visit the southern ruins), Silver Card (steal from Aion)

Strategy: There is a BIG difference in Hector Mode. If you kill Kishuna in that one turn he stays, you gain access to ANOTHER SIDE QUEST! I recommend Marcus with a Silver Lance for a big help. Anyway, the chapter has barely changed yet again, your pegasus knight (Florina or Fiora, Fiora has better RES) can go to the village, your magicians can go down west to handle the mages and slow knights and your physical units can go down the eastern way. Keep your archer and Oswin behind to take care of Merlinus when the pesky pegasus enemies appear. Make your way across with everyone, give EXP to those who need it. Not only will it help your rank but it is generally easier that way. Once you are up to Aion, first take out the knights with Hector and the snipers with whoever needs the EXP most. Then steal the very valuable Silver Card, that halves the cost of items (amazing boost to funds) and kill Aion with anyone who is accurate and reasonably powerful (weaken with Marcus and finish off with whoever needs EXP). Now, to access the next Gaiden Chapter, kill Kishuna in the one turn you get to kill him. Marcus with his Silver Lance will deal a lot of damage, so will the lords and their Prf. weapons. Once Kishuna dies, seize.

NOTE: Kishuna leaves the turn after Aion dies. He also leaves the turn after attacking him, if you choose to attack him. So choose your attacks carefully...

Chapter Nineteen Gaiden Gaiden: A Glimpse in Time FOG OF WAR -----

HECTOR MODE ONLY CHAPTER – KEY PLOT SPOILERS IN THIS CHAPTER (not disclosed here, but I'm just telling you...)

Kill Kishuna in Chapter Nineteen Gaiden AND raise Nils to at least level 7 or higher in Lyn Mode (Normal or Hard Mode)

Objective: Seize throne

New characters: --

Boss Data:

Teodor

Druid L17 w/Eclipse, Nosferatu

Items: Chest Key (steal from thief), Lockpick (steal from thief), Talisman (lone chest in north), Eclipse (south west room, left chest), Dragonshield (south west room, right chest)

Strategy: Another fun Hector exclusive chapter! There are plenty of items around. Thieves will loot the bottom chest especially, split your party up. Send Hector, Oswin and your main forces north west through the main forces of the enemy, killing anyone in your way. Watch out for the nearby ballista! Try to take it out with your flier quickly. Proceed east with another party, preferably led by a strong ranged attacker such as Canas. Matthew should be in this party as well. Your healer can go in the main forces. Continue through the chapter, killing enemies in site and disarming the ballista. Hopefully, by the time your eastern force has reached the chests the thief is just there as well. Use Matthew to steal from him/take from the chests as necessary. Canas can kill the thief after his items are stolen. Converge both parties towards the centre afterwards. Matthew should proceed to the northern chest; there is a thief there with nothing but an Iron Sword which is strange. Teodor is located in the north east of the map where the throne is. He is an extremely strong boss for this stage of the game; park Hector in front of him with a Wolf Beil. His Nosferatu will hit, but then Hector will counter attack, weakening him. Heal Hector and whack him again to kill Otrick. Seize after that.

Chapter Twenty: Dragon's Gate

Objective: Seize throne

New characters: Legault (appears as an enemy – recruit with Hector/Lyn)

Boss Data:

Cameron

Paladin L4 w/Halberd DROPPED

Darin

General L5 w/Spear

Items: Member Card (steal from thief), Brave Bow (lone southern chest), Luna (north west left chest), Blue Gem (north west right chest), Guiding Ring (eastern bottom chest), Barrier (eastern upper chest), Door Key (kill), Chest Key (kill), Halberd (kill Cameron)

Strategy: The chapter hasn't changed – everything is there that was there before. Repeat the same strategy as before, keep your ranged attackers and magicians slightly behind to fend with the pesky foes there. Your flier should stay back, it may not be a bad idea to train both pegasus knights. Send your armoured units in the lead, Matthew should be behind the lords, who should all be behind (except Hector if he isn't already fully levelled). Charge quickly past Cameron and company towards Legault. Like in Eliwood Mode, split your party reasonably well; I recommend your high movement characters go through the northern path to corner Legault and the other head through the southern path. Matthew should be snatching the chest south and then via the fliers being transported quickly up. The western chests will be taken care of by any unit, because the knight drops a Chest Key there. Find a way for Hector to talk to Legault and then Legault nab the Member Card off the other thief, as well as other items he may have. Kill the thief after that. Your main forces can gather EXP from reinforcements while you send Oswin and Hector towards the throne. Kill Darin with Oswin and when you're ready, seize with Hector.

Chapter Twenty One: New Resolve FOG OF WAR

Objective: Defeat Oleg

New characters: Ninian (automatic)

Boss Data:

Oleg

Warrior L5 w/Killer Axe, Steal Bow, Hero Crest

HP 42 STR 16 SKL 9 SPD 7 DEF 12 RES 7 LUC 3

Items: Torch (kill), Antitoxin (steal/kill), Restore (village closest to starting point), Light Rune (south west village), Elysian Whip (north east village), Wyrmslayer (south east village), Hero Crest (steal from Oleg)

Strategy: Determine which thief you like more, I prefer Legault. Bring units who need the EXP most, underpromoted units should be strongly considered. Move slowly east, using your thief to light the way. Keep stronger units out the front and others behind. Use your pegasus knights to pick off the scrawny monks and visit the further villages, but beware of brigands with poison weapons. Stock up on supplies if you need to. Lure Oleg with a strong DEF/HP unit and steal the Hero Crest with Legault, when you are ready. Finish Oleg with strong magicians and attackers (the other lords won't deal much damage).

Chapter Twenty Two: Kinship's Bond

Objective: Protect Nils for 11 turns or defeat Eubans

New characters: Isadora (automatic), Rath (appears as an ally after Turn 2 – recruit with Lyn), Heath (appears as an enemy – recruit with a lord)

Boss Data:

Eubans

Paladin L6 w/Spear DROPPED

Items: 10000G (left chest in south west), Brave Axe (right chest in south west), Knight Crest (steal from Eubans), Spear (kill Eubans)

Strategy: There isn't much change in this map, Eubans is located in a different position and a thief is required to nab that Knight Crest. I suggest deploying both thieves. Move Legault and a lord west, lure Heath and recruit him when the time comes without attacking him. Use Heath to take care of the thief south and then Legault can take the chests there. Your main forces should move swiftly south towards the reinforcements and action, Lyn should move east in preparation for Rath's arrival. Just get as much EXP as possible, reach the boss and dispose of him using strong lancemen such as Oswin and maybe good axemen such as Bartre if you trained him. Your fliers might be a little too frail. Oh, and if you like use your other thief to steal that Knight Crest. Use your flier to whisk him out of the way of harm.

Chapter Twenty Three: Living Legend

Objective: Defeat all enemies and protect Pent

New characters: Hawkeye (appears as an ally on Turn 2 – recruit with main lord)

Boss Data:

Paul

Warrior L8 w/Killer Axe

Jasmine

Warrior L9 w/Hand Axe, Guiding Ring

Strategy: Keep Hector put. I recommend both thieves in this chapter; one can go to pick up the rare Ocean Seal 3 from the right and 2 from the bottom of the desert. Your main forces, preferably lead by magicians should make their way north and across. Hector's party is down the bottom now, so it makes things harder to reach Pent. Use your fliers to lure foes towards you. Use Ninian and your healers for EXP. Remember, if you get more than 700 EXP and recruit Hawkeye (he appears right next to Hector) you get the Gaiden chapter. Spend some time with your thieves nabbing some of the treasures around the desert, they are very useful for funds.

Chapter Twenty Three Gaiden: Genesis

 Your party must have gained 700EXP or more in Chapter 23H ***

Objective: Defeat all enemies

New characters: --

Boss Data:

Kishuna

Magic Seal L10

HP 54 STR 4 SKL 3 SPD 25 DEF 14 RES 3 LUC 0

Items: Silver Blade (lone chest to the south west), Berserk (south east chest), Secret Book (centre chest before Kishuna's room)

Strategy: The exact same as Eliwood Mode. Split your group up evenly, divide a thief between each party. Unite the parties in the eastern path as the eastern party move south and west. Take the chests as you go. Move towards the boss, kill all promoted enemies with your weaker units for more EXP. Open the door and kill the four guardians and their rare silver weapons.

Chapter Twenty Four: Four-Fanged Offense Lloyd Version FOG OF WAR

IF COMBINED LEVEL OF LORDS IS LESS THAN 50

Objective: Defeat Lloyd

New characters: Wallace (ally – recruit with any member of Lyndis's Legion)

Boss Data:

Lloyd

Swordmaster L12 w/Silver Sword

HP 41 STR 18 SKL 19 SPD 19 DEF 8 RES 15 LUC 16

Items: Red Gem (steal), Orion's Bolt (kill sniper), Earth Seal (visit the eastern village), Silence (visit the northern village)

Strategy: Split your party up. Move your lords across along with a high movement character. Use Ninian to break the snag right away. If you are using Florina, have her perch between the mountains overlooking the village. The other party should move north, dispatch of the monks and mercenaries. Disarm the ballistas quickly, keep Oswin in the frontline. Florina can talk to Wallace soon. Anyway, your whole party should be moving north, Oswin absorbing any blows from rogue enemies. Use your other guys to pick off the enemies that are weakened; bowmen will benefit especially from all the fliers around. The eastern party should move up and around, visit the village and stock up on supplies. When Wallace is recruited, send him to meet the main forces. Keep killing foes around but don't go too far up yet. The lords should make their way north to get the Silence from the village. Use both Generals to approach Lloyd armed with their most powerful lances. Lloyd actually moves if you enter his attack range, so beware. Use projectiles, especially from magicians to weaken him and take him down with a double General attack.

Chapter Twenty Four: Four-Fanged Offense Linus Version

IF COMBINED LEVEL OF LORDS IS 50+

Objective: Defeat Linus

New characters: Geitz (enemy from the village to the east – recruit with Dart)

Boss Data:

Linus

Hero L12 w/Silver Blade, Hand Axe

HP 45 STR 21 SKL 18 SPD 12 DEF 14 RES 12 LUC 14

Items: Orion's Bolt (far north west village), Earth Seal (eastern village), Silence (north village next to Bolt village), Red Gem (steal)

Strategy: Geitz is far east, instead of the Eliwood version of up near the sprawl of villages. Move Dart, Ninian and a strong bait that won't attack back (Oswin maybe?). Lure Geitz and recruit him, use him to take care of the units that arrive there and visit the village. Your other forces should move up, visiting the villages and gaining EXP. Watch for the wyverns which have massive range. This is your best chance to level up unpromoted units. The arena should be used for those who need it most. Make your way east towards Linus with reasonably competent units (any promoted unit will do). Kill the enemies in the way and take down Linus with units that can take a beating. Magicians' ranged attacks are OK, but not close-up.

Chapter Twenty Five: Crazy Beast

HECTOR MODE CHAPTER ONLY

Objective: Earn 3 points (seize 3 fortresses that are guarded)

New characters: Farina (ally – will talk to Hector, give 20000G)

Boss Data:

Pascal

Paladin L14 w/Spear

HP 48 STR 17 SKL 13 SPD 10 DEF 13 RES 8 LUC 11

Items: Elysian Whip (visit the village to the east)

Strategy: Another fun Hector exclusive chapter... Notice the pattern? Have your fliers go and disarm the ballista and let them wreak havoc killing the monks to the east. Send your sturdy axemen up north to face Pascal and to the west send some sword users who you can rely on (Raven etc.) to crush the foes there. Most of your magicians should stay put, including your healer. Have one of your archers go in the ballista and snipe the fliers for a crap load of EXP. When Farina arrives on Turn 5, she talks to Hector. 20000G is a lot of money, on an S rank mission I would not recommend her, but normally she is an excellent unit. Anyway, the fortresses you need to seize are the one guarded by the berserker in the west, the one guarded by the Bishop in the east and the one guarded by Pascal to the north. Take them after getting a lot of EXP, especially for your fliers. This is a very useful and easy chapter.

Chapter Twenty Six: Unfulfilled Heart

Objective: Survive for 11 turns

New characters: Pent (automatic), Louise (automatic)

Boss Data:

Vaida

Wyvern Lord L10 w/Spear (Uber)

Items: Hammerne (south western village), Uber Spear (Mine Trick), Luna (shaman)

Strategy: Vaida is now on the north east, guarding the shops. This is better for two things; A) Mine trick for the Uber Spear B) Getting Luna off the shaman in the north west. Promote whoever is level 20, Eliwood might be the better choice to get him a head start because he is difficult to train. Move Eliwood to handle the mages in the west and keep your lords closeby, but not in danger. The central party should snipe at the foes nearby and not move too much. The eastern party should consist of your fliers, just move them around and kill the enemies near the mountains. Gradually unite the party, Eliwood solely dealing with the enemies to the north and the fliers dealing with enemies in the south. Hopefully, quite a few of your units are ready for promotion. Promoting both the fliers isn't a bad idea.

NOTE: Merlinus will promote in this chapter assuming you did Chapter 13x AND you sent him out to every single battle and he did not die. Check out the Secrets section for tips to grab the Uber Spear.

Chapter Twenty Seven: Pale Flower of Darkness Jerme Version

IF PHYSICAL UNITS' COMBINED LEVEL > MAGICIANS' COMBINED LEVEL

Objective: Defeat all enemies

New characters: Karel (appears as an ally if 4 or more doors have been opened – talk with Lyn), Harken (appears as an enemy if less than 4 doors have been opened – talk with a unit from Pherae or Ostia) TURN 9 CHARACTER APPEARS

Boss Data:

Jerme

Assassin L13 w/Light Brand DROPPED

Items: Talisman (northern lone chest), White Gem (central room, left chest), Bolting (central room, right chest), Hero Crest (south eastern chest), Light Brand (kill Jerme)

Strategy: Move Pent up north, the main forces to the east. Unlock the door directly in front with a thief, have another thief follow Pent. Defeat the enemies within with a strong swordsman. Keep going east with the main forces, your tanks in the lead. Pent should dispose of enemies north and the thief should unlock the door. Pent should kill the snipers first and take care of the others while the thief moves east towards the northern chest. Back to the main forces, as the snow stops charge with your fliers and other high movement characters to kill the enemies. Seize the two chests with your thief and start moving south to the bottom two rooms. At the fork, Karel/Harken should appear if you are quick. Recruit them aptly and split your force up; down south send your weaker units and up north send a few stronger ones (promoted lord, other promoted units). The thief that was near Pent should be moving to catch up to the northern party, use a flier if necessary. Pent should be dealing with the reinforcements. The southern party thief should unlock first the eastern door, leaving it open for some units to gain EXP from the hero and mercenaries. The thief should then head to the western door and open it; magicians should kill the general and knights and the thief can seize the chest there. By this stage, the other thief will have reached the final door. Unlock it and send strong units to blockade the entrance. Take down Jerme with your promoted units that are lower levelled.

Chapter Twenty Seven: Pale Flower of Darkness Kenneth Version

IF MAGICIANS' COMBINED LEVEL > PHYSICAL UNITS' COMBINED LEVEL

Objective: Seize throne

New characters: Karel (appears as an ally if 3 or more promoted units have been killed – talk with Lyn), Harken (appears as an enemy if less than 3 promoted units have been killed – talk with a unit from Pherae or Ostia)
TURN 9 CHARACTER APPEARS

Boss Data:

Kenneth

Bishop L13 w/Aura DROPPED

HP 19 SKL 16 SPD 13 DEF 9 RES 21 LUC 6

Items: Talisman (northern chests, left), Blue Gem (northern chests, centre), Guiding Ring (northern chests, right), Aura (kill Kenneth)

Strategy: Keep Oswin and other low RES characters still to take care of the Sage and General just north and other reinforcements later on. Send everyone else led by your promoted lord north hugging the left wall (if you want Harken) so the Bishop cannot attack and get killed. Over the next few turns, move north, heal as necessary. Low RES characters should be rescued. Your fliers will do wonders. After the snow stops, start heading east, make sure Hector is with the main party. Eliwood can stay put below the druids for when Harken arrives (or park Lyn there if Karel arrives). Your thief should start taking the chests. Send some units to kill the enemies near Kenneth. Kill the thief that appears near Eliwood/Lyn and next turn recruit the desired character. Finally, use your promoted lord to take care of the dark users above. Oswin's party should be dealing with reinforcements. After your desired character is recruited, feel free to open the door to the big main section of the building and use your weaker units to gain valuable EXP. Take out Kenneth with some physical units that have decent RES (fliers do the job well). After that, seize with Hector.

Chapter Twenty Eight: Battle Before Dawn

Objective: Protect Zephiel for 15 turns

New characters: Nino (ally – recruit with Hector/Lyn)

Boss Data:

Maxime

Paladin L6 w/Silver Lance

HP 40 STR 14 SKL 12 SPD 13 DEF 9 RES 15 LUC 5

Ursula

Valkyrie L15 w/Bolting, Elfire

Items: Boots (western room, left chest), Brave Lance (western room, right chest), Rescue (eastern room, left chest), Delphi Shield (eastern room, right chest), Elysian Whip (kill bishop guarding east entrance), Lockpick (kill hero in the west)

Strategy: Split your party. Your stronger thief should go left, so split your thieves. Split your fliers, your stronger one (to magic) should go right. Oswin should go left, your main melee units should go right. Your main healer should go left and your main magicians should head right as well. Ursula is now located in the south EAST, so she can kill Nino easily. Jaffar can handle himself. Move swiftly down south on both sides, heal as possible. Your fliers can lead the way, trap and kill the thieves that interfere. Watch out for more reaver weapons that reverse the weapon triangle! Use your western flier to rescue Jaffar and bring him east. Your other units on the west side should deal with the many enemies there, make sure your thief nabs the two chests there. On the east, head down south with Oswin and your other flier. Lyn/Hector can talk to Nino and keep her away, try to send her to the left. Your thief should stay clear of Ursula too, move left as soon as you can to nab the other two chests. Use Oswin and your flier to kill Ursula quickly. The flier from the west can approach with Jaffar so Nino can talk. Make sure to rescue Jaffar so he doesn't commit suicide. Zephiel will deal with some enemies, reinforce him when your fliers aren't busy. Clean up the enemies to east and west and keep Zephiel safe. Make sure the thieves don't get the spoils before you do. As long as Ursula is killed early on, you won't be in any danger.

Chapter Twenty Eight Gaiden: Night of Farewells -----

Have Nino talk to Jaffar in Chapter Twenty Eight

Objective: Seize throne

New characters: Jaffar (automatic)

Boss Data:

Sonia

Sage L17 w/Bolting, Fimbulvetr, Fell Contract DROPPED

HP 44 MAG 19 SKL 18 SPD 18 DEF 19 RES 23 LUC 0

Items: Angelic Robe (steal from bishop), Blue Gem (steal from wyvern lord), Antitoxin (steal from cavalier), Speedwings (chest in the south east), Fenrir (north east, left chest), Thor's Ire (north east, middle chest), Recover (north east, right chest), Fell Contract (kill Sonia)

Strategy: Use your fliers to deal with pesky units as your other main units advance. Promote your other lord. Priority for training goes to that lord. Move forward at a steady pace, killing enemies. It takes a long time, but it is worth the trouble as you advance. Guard Nino and Jaffar as required. Waste Sonia's Bolting with a high RES magician. Continue to advance and make sure no other thieves take the chests with your fliers. Have a small party head with your thief north to grab the three chests there. Merlinus cannot come to this chapter, so watch how many items you have. You'll reach the boss after numerous turns, kill Sonia with your strongest units. These units must also be reasonably accurate, so your promoted lords and Oswin are good choice. Remember to take Hector on your way so he can seize.

Chapter Twenty Nine: Cog of Destiny

Objective: Defeat all enemies

New characters: Vaida (enemy – appears after a unit crosses the mountain range, recruit with Hector)

Boss Data:

Linus

HP 58 STR 24 SKL 20 SPD 15 DEF 19 RES 15 LUC 14

Items: Warp (village in the west), Iron Rune (kill the Reed brother)

Strategy: Oswin should advance west to deal with foes there, your magicians should head north and your promoted lords as well as other sturdy units should head towards the main army of generals etc. Use your fliers to their full potential to disarm the ballistas and reach the village quickly, use that Delphi Shield if required. It'll take a long time, but after many turns of having your units defeat the enemy, Vaida will appear. Recruit with Hector and beat the wyverns that appear there with your magicians. Take the time to use your fliers to stock up on supplies. Use your main lords to slowly advance west, keep some units to stop reinforcements from the north. As Oswin and the lords meet, enemies will slowly stop appearing. Defeat the boss with a team attack, ranged attacks are best. Clear off reinforcements and the chapter ends.

Chapter Thirty: The Berserker

HECTOR MODE CHAPTER ONLY

Objective: Seize throne

New characters: --

Boss Data:

HP 60 STR 20 SKL 18 SPD 15 DEF 15 RES 22 LUC 0

Items: Goddess Icon (steal), Speedwings (steal), Wolf Beil (north east) treasure chest), Pure Water (central south chest), Elixir (south west chest), Chest Key (kill)

Strategy: A short and easy chapter for Hector to get some EXP now that he is promoted. I recommend bringing the other lords, make sure they have room for items. It is a very linear map, move west; make sure you avoid the poison holes that shoot poison every once in a while. Try to grab the north eastern chest for the Wolf Beil. Give Hector the majority of battle EXP. When you reach the west, take out the mages with Lyn and sit Hector in front of Kaim. Use Elixirs if you are hit and hammer him with your own old Wolf Beil (which is near broken).

Chapter Thirty One: Sands of Time

Denning

Sniper L19 w/Silver Bow, Longbow

Items: Body Ring (southern chest), Dragonsshield (western room, left chest), White Gem (western room, right chest), Swordslayer (kill sniper)

Strategy: The party to the south should be your strongest units. Start attacking the enemies. To the north, give your lords' the majority of EXP. Your magicians can help as well. Over the next few turns, clear enemies and to the south get rid of Denning by teaming him with your strongest units. Denning is weaker to physical attacks than magic. Use your fliers after the archers have been cleared away to guard the chests as your thief/thieves take the chests. Kill off the annoying druids with your lords quickly. Apart from that, this chapter is rather easy, but the archers are pesky and annoying in huge amounts.

Chapter Twenty Nine Gaiden: Battle Preparations

MANDATORY GAIDEN CHAPTER

Objective: Get supplies in 5 turns

New characters: Karla (if Bartre is level 5 promoted or higher, Karla will appear as an ally above the area, talk to her and you will battle. Both must survive and then Karla will join)

Items: --

Strategy: Gather supplies if you like, abuse the arena if you like, get Karla if you have used Bartre. This chapter is just a bonus, with the 30000G you get.

NOTE: Getting Karla isn't as hard as you may think. On one of your playthroughs you should use Bartre. Make sure he is the required level. Now, equip him with an Iron Rune and the Iron Bow and fight Karla. Karla will not critical him, and he will not hit Karla at all.

Chapter Thirty Two: Victory or Death

Objective: Seize gate

New characters: Renault (visit the ruins in the north west)

Boss Data:

Limstella

Sage L20 w/Fimbulvetr DROPPED, Bolting

Items: Set's Litany (visit the central ruins), Talisman (visit the south eastern ruins), Nosferatu (kill druid), Fimbulvetr (kill Limstella)

Strategy: Your fliers are important to charge through this chapter. In Hector Mode, finish the chapter in 15 turns or less to get a final gaiden chapter. Rescue Canas and Hector and move north, disarming ballistas in the way. Split up your party, to the east Oswin and other strong units, to the north the rest of your units who need more help. Through the divide, send your casters (sages etc.). Over the next several turns, defeat enemies and advance in the respective directions, visiting ruins, disarming ballistas and recruiting Renault. Make sure to take care of the Bishop with a Berserk. Drop Hector and Canas in the fortresses before the boss, the fliers should be ready to fight. Use Canas over the next turn or two with Luna, taking care and seize quickly right after with Hector.

Chapter Thirty Two Gaiden: The Value of Life

Objective: Kill Kishuna

New characters: --

Boss Data:

Kishuna

Magic Seal L18

Items: Runesword (west, left chest), Fortify (west, right chest)

Strategy: A thief isn't a bad idea here. No magicians! I recommend using your lords and another reasonably strong unit. Make your way up and around, tank with Hector and snipe with Lyn as necessary. Take the chests with a Chest Key or Lockpick and continue, Hector in the lead. Make your way to the final room, defeat the enemies and unlock the door with the Door Key. Many reinforcements start pouring in, Quickly eliminate Kishuna with a few swift blows from any of the lords and their Prf. weapons. Just remember – only one person can hit Kishuna at a time. This is a good chapter to level up weaker units.

NOTE: You are rewarded at the end of the game for unlocking all three Kishuna Gaiden chapters (19xx, 23x and 32x)

Final Chapter: Light Part I

Objective: Defeat Nergal

New characters: --

Boss Data:

Nergal

Dark Druid L20 w/Ereshkigal

HP 75 MAG 30 SKL 18 SPD 15 DEF 28 RES 30 LUC 20

(all other morphs are the EXACT SAME as Eliwood normal)

Items: Riefleche, Basilikos, Luce, Gespenst, Rex Hasta, Excalibur, Regal Blade

Strategy: You know the drill, it hasn't changed since Eliwood Mode. Take each enemy as they come with appropriate units. The ones to watch out for are: Uhai, Ursula and the Reed Brothers. Uhai can be taken down with any strong and fast unit. You may want to tank with Oswin and slowly kill him off. Ursula can be taken care of with Athos and/or Canas. The Reed Brothers require teamwork, use Swordslayers and your stronger spells to kill them. Have a Restore ready in case the Berserk from the Druid hits. Don't drop any of the S rank weapons and don't use them; instead use the divine weapons or silver weapons if you have to. Kill Nergal with the lords and Athos if necessary with Aureola.

Final Chapter: Light Part II -----

Objective: Defeat the Dragon

Boss Data:

Dragon

Fire Dragon L20 w/Flametongue

HP 120 STR 17 + 10 SKL 25 + 10 SPD 15 DEF 20 + 20 RES 30 + 10 LUC 24

Strategy: There are plenty of people who are effective against the dragon;

Canas and Luna

Canas and Eclipse

Athos and Luna

Athos and Aureola

Eliwood and Durandal

Hector and Armads

Most of them can deal 20 damage per turn but everyone takes 37 damage, so heal as necessary. Luna deals ~50-60 damage a turn, and Eclipse halves the dragon's HP if it hits. Do what you like, the dragon doesn't move. Watch for enemies sniping your weaker units with spells. Use Nils to get Canas in range to kill the dragon.

Due to popular demand, I've added some more information on the final boss.

- The dragon DOES NOT MOVE. Despite this fact, it proves to be fearsome with its 3 square range forward. Don't let that catch any of your weaker units off-guard; make sure you either rescue or use Nils to get them out of the way!
- Watch carefully for the long-range magicians trying to target your weaker units with Bolting, Purge etc.
- If you have neglected Canas or the lords for some reason, do not fear! There is hope as long as Athos is there! Athos can single-handedly remove the final boss. Here's how:

Turn 1 - Move Athos to attack the dragon with Luna/Aureola. He will be damaged during the exchange. Heal with a healer moving RIGHT BEHIND Athos. Use Nils to play to this healer and MOVE THE HEALER OUT OF THE DRAGON'S RANGE!

Turn 2 - Athos will be attacked again (during the enemy phase) and will have damaged the dragon further. Heal with your healer and move him/her out of the way. DO NOT ATTACK WITH ATHOS THIS TURN!

Rinse and repeat this strategy for a relatively fast and easy way to kill the final boss. Watch for those snipers, because they will most likely be aiming for Nils.

Congratulations! You completed Hector Mode! If you accessed all the Gaiden chapters you get the special ending and CG! My strategy helped me S rank Hector Mode, I hope it did the same for you!

~~~~ 09) HECTOR HARD MODE ~~~~~ [0900]

(UNDER CONSTRUCTION = INCOMPLETE)

For now, I'll keep my Hard Mode advice... Again, I'm really sorry for not finishing the walkthrough for HHM. It's probably the most valuable section.

I myself have not S ranked the Hard Modes yet, but I can give some advice that will prove useful. The distinct changes from Normal Mode in Hard Mode are:

- less EXP gained, making it hard to get your rank up
- More enemies and reinforcements
- More difficult to obtain items
- Arena abuse is more difficult due to insane units
- Enemies are more aggressive, they charge and rush more

That sums up Eliwood Hard Mode, but most people are more interested in Hector Hard Mode. My advice for a first timer doing Hector Hard Mode:

- Do Lyn Hard Mode. Train those who are essential to Hard Mode such as Lyn, Matthew etc.
- Supports might be a little more important. Consider who will support who.
- Play defensively and don't be reckless trying to grab items. I'm afraid to say that you will have to let some items go, because they are HARD to get.
- Thieves are very important. Check for items to steal at all times!
- Arena abuse is a decent option in moderate amounts.
- Check enemy weapons! You never know when they have Luna or something deadly like that.
- Survival is more important than anything.
- Train many unpromoted units to keep your EXP even at a decent level.
- The effective weapons and reaver weapons are much more useful, as is Barrier and Pure Water. There are many more mages around in Hector Hard Mode.
- Balance out who you train, there is plenty of EXP to go around. Don't end up relying on a few units. Train a party of around 10 units.
- Have fun! If you get frustrated, the game is starting to get to you. Take a break and come back to the game later.

So, the player has now obtained a general grasp of the basics. Here comes the more advanced aspects of the game, everything from formulae and data that the game doesn't explain so that the player has grasped a good knowledge of how the game REALLY works.

a) General Formula List ----- [1010]

You know what this is for... Formulas are extremely important in several considerations of the game. This is definitely a worthwhile section to learn and memorise.

Attack speed:

Weapon Wt. > Con = Speed + (Con - Weapon Weight)

Weapon Wt. < Con = Speed

Weapon Wt. = Con, = Speed

Hit rate = $2 * \text{Skill} + 0.5 * \text{Luck} - \text{Target avoid} + \text{weapon hit rate} + \text{Bonuses}$
(+5% from S rank in weapon level and 0-25% depending on supports & 1-9% for tactician's bonus)

Avoid = $2 * \text{attack speed} + \text{luck} + \text{bonuses}$ (0-25% from supports, 0-40% from different terrain, 1-9% for tactician's bonus and +10% if Set's Litany is in use)

Damage = Power + Effective Weapon Might - Target Effective Defence + Bonuses
(0-5 Def from supports & +10 if Fillia's Might is in use)

Effective weapon might = $(\text{Might} + \text{Weapon Triangle advantage}) * 2$ if weapon is effective against target

Effective defence = Def/Res + Bonuses (0-5 Def supports, 0-2 from terrain & +10 if Nini's Grace is in use)

Rune Sword/Light Brand damage range 2 = Power/2 rounded up affecting resistance

Rune Sword/Light Brand damage range 1 = Power affecting resistance

Critical rate = $\text{Weapon critical} + 0.5 * \text{skill} - \text{target critical evade} + \text{bonuses}$
(+5% if S in weapon, +15% for swordmasters/berserkers, 0-25% supports & +10% if Thor's Ire is in use)

Critical evade = Luck + Bonuses (0-25% supports, 1-9 from tactician rank)

Criticals deal damage*3 and you can only critical if you hit

Magic swords cannot critical when casting a spell

Staff accuracy = $30\% + \text{Power} * 5 + \text{Skill} - \text{Enemy staff evade} + \text{bonuses}$ (+5% from S rank staff level, 0-25% supports)

Staff evasion = $\text{Res} * 5 + \text{Distance from target} * 2 + \text{bonuses}$ (0-25% supports)

Effective against weapons = double their normal might

Steal = if a space is free in the thief's inventory and they have greater speed than the enemy (cannot miss)

Aid =

CON - 1 for unmounted units

20 - CON for mounted females

25 - CON for mounted males

Devil Axe

$\{[(RN \text{ from } 12 \text{ to } 16) - \text{User's Luck}] * 2 / 255\} * 100 = \% \text{ chance of self-injury}$

NOTE: Supports to defence raise both DEF & RES, as denoted by Effective Defence

b) Breakdown of Stats ----- [1020]

The game doesn't explain much about any of the stats. This section aims to clarify what EXACTLY each stat does. Again, another almost exact replica from my Game Mechanics Guide.

HP: Health Points; If it reaches 0 your unit dies and cannot be used again

STR: Strength; damage you deal to opponents but is dependant on defence

MAG: Magic; damage you deal to opponents but is dependant on resistance

SKL: Skill; affects hit rate and critical rate

SPD: Speed; affects evasion rate and attack speed (AS), with 4+ more speed than the opponent you can double attack them

LUC: Luck; affects hit rate, evasion rate & critical evasion rate

DEF: Defence; affects the damage taken from strength-based attacks

RES: Resistance; affects the damage taken from magic-based attacks

MOV: Movement; affects how far your unit can move

CON: Constitution; affects what weapons your unit can wield without AS loss, who they can rescue and who can rescue them- it is to your advantage to use higher constitution units to wield weapons with greater WEIGHT (Wt) but keep in mind they cannot be rescued by lower constitution units. There is an exception- if the unit is mounted even if their CON is low they can rescue higher constitution units. For example, a cavalier with 9 con has 16 aid, so any unit with 16 or less con can be rescued. When a unit is rescued, the unit who is rescuing suffers a severe speed and skill penalty where they are both halved.

GROWTH RATE is the % chance a unit has to level up a stat

CAPS refer to the maximum of each unit's potential in a stat

THE TACTICIAN'S BONUS for having the same affinity as some characters is as follows: 1-9% for hit rate and avoid rates and critical evasion rates)

HECTOR HARD MODE BONUSES are the special bonuses that some enemy units receive in Hector Hard Mode. They are typically random, little is known about them.

Most observations indicate a +1-2 boost in all stats except LUCK at best, however the general trend is that boosts are given based on classes. The characters that receive HHM Bonuses are:

Guy, Raven, Legault, Heath, Geitz, Harken and Vaida

Pay special attention to ATTACK SPEED, LUCK and CONSTITUTION which are rarely mentioned in the game.

c) The RNG ----- [1030]

The RNG stands for Random Number Generator. I wouldn't be surprised if you are familiar with the term, it applies in a few GBA games even, an example is the Golden Sun series. What does it mean? It basically is a built-in feature in the game that determines many things in the game including:

- whether the unit will be crittalled, will evade, will hit the enemy and anything to do with battle that involves %
- the odds that each of the seven stats that can rise will increase

I don't want to go too into depth with the concept of RNG but you should be familiar with the term. Using this information you can RNG ABUSE which involves manipulating the RNs (random numbers) in order to produce a favourable outcome (such as hit an enemy or dodge an attack) where you otherwise would have failed however, such situations are usually avoided by good strategy. The main reason for RNG abuse is because of levelling up characters in all their stats. As you already know GROWTHS affect how characters level up. There is always a chance (with some exceptions) that the character will not grow in a stat. RNG abuse has one primary purpose: level all the stats in order to reach the character's CAPS and become an ultimate LA team member.

I really am no expert on RNG abuse, so a link I suggest to go to would be:

<http://faqs.ign.com/articles/520/520430p1.html>

Here's the basics:

- * 2 RNs are used to determine hit rate odds.
- * If the hit is a success, a 3rd RN is used for critical hits odds.
- * If the hit is a failure, the game will use only the 2 RNs for hit rate odds.
- * If an assassin is successful in performing a critical, a 4th RN is used to determine if the critical is a one-hit KO or not.
- * 7 RNs are used when a unit levels up.
- * During the beginning of an enemy's turn, 1 RN is used.
- * Usable items like vulnerabilities or using staves do not use RNs.
- * It is still unknown how the Arena uses RNs.

d) Weapons Data ----- [1040]

Here are a few little things about weapons you won't find anywhere else.

Weapon Level

Determines which weapons you can wield. If a unit has an A weapon level in swords it means they could wield a Silver Sword (requires A rank) and they cannot wield the Regal Blade (requires S rank).

A Prf. denotes that only one person can wield the weapon. The Prf. weapons are:

|--------------|-------------------|
| RAPIER - | Eliwood exclusive |
| MANI KATTI - | Lyn exclusive |
| WOLF BEIL - | Hector exclusive |
| DURANDAL - | Eliwood exclusive |
| SOL KATTI - | Lyn exclusive |
| ARMADS - | Hector exclusive |
| FORBLAZE - | Athos exclusive |

Over half the Prf. weapons in the list are legendary weapons obtained in the Final Chapter, so most players won't need to worry about it too much. Just make sure you give the right character the right weapon when it is required.

There is WEAPON EXP which determines the rank.

E = 1-30

D = 31-70

C = 71-120

B = 121-180

A = 181-250

S = 251+

Weapons give 1-2 EXP per hit but heavier weapons tend to give more EXP. Staves give 2-8 EXP. Most classes get a +40 EXP weapon EXP bonus upon promotion. You cannot get a rank higher than A (181) before promotion.

S rank is beneficial because it adds +5% to critical and +5% to hit rate.

Only one weapon can be S ranked.

For more details, go to the Weapon section.

Weapon & Magic Triangle

This is the basic triangle for units, which means that one unit has an advantage over the other in most cases using the weapon which beats it.

Sword beats axe

Axe beats lance

Lance beats sword

There is a similar concept in magic:

Anima beats light

Light beats dark

Dark beats anima

The weapon triangle lowers hit by 15% on the losing end and raises hit by 15% on the winning end. It also lowers weapon might by 1 on the losing end and raises it by 1 on the winning end.

If a REAVER weapon is in play such as an Axereaver etc. then the triangle is reversed. The winning end gets +2 weapon might and +30% hit and the losing end gets -2 might and -30% hit. If you have two reaver weapons the triangle becomes normal again.

The most powerful reverse weapon happens to be the mighty Swordslayer.

Effective Weapons & Classes

Bows are effective against fliers

Bishops effective against monsters

Dragon weapons effective against wyverns/dragons

Bows are effective against dragons/wyverns

Horseslayer, Halberd and Longsword effective against mounted units

Hammer, Heavy Spear effective against knights/generals

Swordslayer is effective against myrmidons, swordmasters, mercenaries, heroes

Wolf Beil/Rapier/Mani Katti are effective against cavaliers, paladins, knights, generals

e) Special Abilities ----- [1050]

A few classes are slightly special... They have their own unique abilities, as you'll soon see.

Assassin's OHKO

Fire Emblem: The Sacred Stones will recognise this technique as the infamous skill Silencer. Assassins have a special ability to be able to OHKO enemies. This ability works against every single character in the game except the final boss. Instead of the standard assassin critical, this OHKO can be noted by a red streak appearing on the screen as the critical occurs. The assassin will OHKO the enemy regardless of damage and HP and will gain more EXP than normal.

The formula for an assassin's OHKO is 50% of the standard critical rate.

Triangle Attack!

This is a special technique involving all three pegasus sisters. The three fliers must be arranged in a triangle formation surrounding the enemy. In other words, two to the left or right of the enemy and one above or below, which can vary depending on perspective and can be done vice versa.

It is an automatic critical ie. 100% critical 100% hit rate. Subsequent hits are normal and any counters by the enemy are directed at the unit that begins the triangle attack. A triangle attack does not activate on counters. The attack must be in a triangle formation but any of the 3 can initiate it. The other 2 can have finished their current turn.

----- f) Status Ailments ----- [1060]

An enemy may use a status staff on you to affect your units to their advantage. The same can occur when you use a staff on them such as Sleep.

All statuses start at the count of 5 turns.

At the start of the character's turn the count reduces by 1.

Once the count reaches 0 the character becomes normal status and can act immediately.

A unit can have only one status condition at a time. Enemies may overwrite status conditions but you cannot.

POISON

Applied from certain traps and weapons.

Takes 1-3 (random) damage at the start of your turn.

SLEEP

From a "Sleep staff".

Character cannot receive commands and cannot attack. They can dodge. Getting hit does NOT wake them up.

BERSERK

From a "Berserk staff".

Character attacks a unit (friend or foe) to which it can deal most damage relative to their HP. They cannot receive commands. Acts exactly like the "attack" AI. Acts after all non-status units.

SILENCE

From a "Silence staff".

Cannot use magical tomes or staves.

----- g) Terrain & Movement ----- [1070]

Different terrain gives different bonuses, for example forests.

Throne panels affect only physical defence.

NB: Fliers receive no terrain bonus

Woods: evasion +20% def +1 sand: evasion +5% high mountains: evasion +40% pillar: evasion +20% def +1 throne: evasion +30% def +3 castle gate: evasion +30% def +3 sea: evasion +10% mountains: evasion +30% def +1 village: evasion +10%

Any not mentioned do not give a bonus.

Movement is dependent on the unit and changes depending on the weather and conditions.

NB: Fliers are not affected by terrain.

The general movement pattern is 5 for unpromoted, 7 for mounted units, 4 for knights. Every class gains 1 movement when they promote with the exception of the General, which gains 2 movement.

Mounted units lose AID when they gain CON, others gain CON & AID.

Terrain makes a difference to movement:

Forests: 3 for mounted units except nomads, 2 for anyone else

Rivers: 2 for pirates & berserkers, 5 for lords, thieves, assassins, swordmasters, heroes, snipers and nomads. No one else allowed.

Sea: 2 for pirates & berserkers

Mountains: 6 for promoted mounted units except nomads, 5 for nomads, 3 for primary axemen, 4 for all other non-mounted units except knights & generals

High Mountain: 4 for bandits & berserkers

Deserts:

Non-mounted magic units are unaffected

All unpromoted mounted units have a movement of 1

Fighters & Knights have a movement of 1

All promoted mounted units, generals & warriors have a movement of 2

Thieves have a movement of 3

All other unpromoted units have a movement of 2

All other promoted units have a movement of 3

h) Afa's Drops ----- [1080]

Answered before in the FAQ, this is the item that Athos gives the tactician before Chapter 23 Eliwood. If a character uses it, the effect is said as "maturity increased". What is maturity? The actual effect of the Afa's Drops is to raise the growth rate of each stat by 5%. The said character who used the Afa's Drops will also appear on the Battle History as the one who makes the comment about the player's ranking.

i) Supports ----- [1090]

SUPPORTS are conversations between units which reveal information about that character which you may not have known otherwise. More importantly, supports yield bonuses based on affinities. Supports occur after a certain amount of turns. Not all characters can support however, so you must know who can support who. This is revealed in the game as you progress on the start menu before you begin a chapter in the Augury section after Nils takes over. A person can support at a maximum support "A". As turns continue a "talk" command will appear and a conversation will take place if you choose to use it. Afterwards the game will say "support level risen". The SUPPORT LEVEL rises to "C" afterwards. As more turns accumulate more conversations occur until the maximum "A" level is reached.

A unit can have a maximum of 5 conversations in the game, for example, Hector could have:

A Oswin
B Eliwood
OR A Lyn
C Eliwood
C Oswin

And so on. Think of A as 3 conversations, B as 2 and C as 1. As the level rises the bonus improves so it is in your best interests to get a unit a maximum of 5 conversations and the optimal setting would be (A unit 1 B unit 2). This is important to consider in the Link Arena where 5 units are pitted against each other.

AFFINITIES are a particular attribute of characters which determine which support bonus they yield. There are 7 affinities: fire, wind, thunder, light, anima, darkness and ice.

The following is a series of the elements accompanied by their respective bonuses.

FIRE

LEVEL: C: Attk: +0.5 Hit: +2.5% Avoid: +2.5% Crit: +2.5%

B: Attk: +1.0 Def: +1.0 Hit: +5.0% Crit: +5.0%

A: Attk: +1.5 Def: +1.5 Avoid: +7.5% Crit Evd: +7.5%

The most offensive affinity is LIGHT.

The most defensive affinity is ICE.

Remember: each person gains a bonus from their affinity and the other person's affinity.

These bonuses can be used to help units' weaknesses become stronger and make the unit more valuable. You learn more about the unit from supports as well. One should try to make a team of supported units for greater effect.

One should remember one thing: the game rounds down all values so "0.5%" would mean "0%" instead. Thus it is in the best interests of the player to give the unit an optimum support (A unit 1 B unit 2)

There are some support guides floating around that might be in-depth, but this chart of bonuses combined with the Characters section will tell you who can support with who for what bonuses.

I'll follow a standard format, because it saves some time.

NB All units HP cap is 60. All unpromoted units have a cap in all other stats as 20. All units cap LUC at 30.

e) Anima ----- [1250]

f) Light ----- [1260]

Weak for most of the game, but strong against the last few enemies in the game. Light magic is weak but relies on luck (ie. high critical) and hitting reliably.

D: Gives +5 to RES and effective against dragons. It seems weaker stat-wise than Luce, right? What is important to note is that RES bonus, as well as it being effective against dragons. The final boss will take a copping from this spell.

g) Dark ----- [1270]

The most powerful magic in the game and probably the most useful weapon in the entire game. There are only two dark users in the game, but even then, they will decimate Nergal and his forces. Dark magic trades in accuracy for a LOT more power.

h) Staves ----- [1280]

The primary purpose of staves is to heal, but there are some (may I add useless) staves that have added effects. Most of them are pointless.

Name: Heal

Name: Hammerne

Uses: 3

Hit: 100

bosses (most of the time).

D: Warps an ally to any location on the map. Only useful to access a Secret Shop, so it isn't something you'd value all that much.

i) Others ----- [1290]

I fit any other stuff here. There isn't much.

Ballistas are rare weapons that can only be used by archers or snipers. They can be useful, but are normally pointless.

Lyn Mode:

Kent- Knight of Lycia

For his bravery in fulfilling his command, Kent is named Knight Commander of Caelin. It is a high honor for one so young, but no one denies his worth.

Sain- Knight of Lycia

Sain has earned the honor of being named subcommander of the Caelin Knights. Despite his promotion, he still scoffs at authority and woos the village girls. He is much loved by the citizenry.

Florina- Pegasus Knight of Ilia

Florina has arranged to stay in Caelin. She spends her every waking hour in rigorous training, hoping to become invaluable to Lyn. Her fear of men has lessened, but...only slightly.

Wil- Archer of Pherae

With his cheery outlook and his happy-go-lucky demeanor, Wil has become quite dear to Marquess Caelin's household. Kent is teaching him manners befitting a sworn man of Castle Caelin.

Dorcas- Fighter of Bern

Once Lyn's true heritage is recognized in Caelin, Dorcas returns to his home in Bern. There, he cares for his wife and makes a good living as a mercenary, fighting the local bandits.

Serra- Cleric of Ostia

Ultimately, Erk succeeds in seeing Seera safely to Ostia. While her behavior is irritating at best, she is sorely missed. Her ascerberic tongue has become legendary.

Erk- The Wandering Mage

His contract with Serra complete, Erk sets off for Etruria. His time as a mercenary is just part of his training, and he is glad to see it end. He has since returned to his mentor.

Rath- The Sacaen Nomad

In the celebration following Lyn's return to Caelin, Rath slips out unseen. Whether he has returned to Sacae or has continued to work as a mercenary, no one knows.

Matthew- The Enigmatic Thief

Matthew vanishes after the final battle and his whereabouts remain a mystery.

Nils- The Mysterious Musician

Nils and his sister, Ninian, take their leave of Castle Caelin after a few days. He may well be traveling the land mastering his musical skills somewhere.

Lucius- The Traveling Monk

Lucius studies in Caelin for a time, but he departs after receiving summons to another land. He has since been seen traveling with a hard-eyed mercenary.

Wallace- the Caelin General

For Wallace, Lyn's struggle only whets his appetite for battle. He sets off in search of a cause worthy of his blade. He lacks any sense of direction, so it may be years before he returns.

(Your Tactician's name)- The Tactician

(Tactician) leaves Lyn to continue his/her training. He/She plans on traveling throughout Lycia. Lyn refuses to say good-bye, believing in her heart that she will see him/her again.

Lyn- The Swordfighter of Sacae

Lyn now lives with her grandfather as Lady Lyndis of Castle Caelin. Under her loving care, Lord Hausen recovers, and now the two of them go for many walks in the Caelin gardens.

On clear, dry nights, Lyn can be seen high atop a hill near the castle. Perhaps she is remembering the home of her youth, the plains of Sacae...

If a characters' HP are reduced to 0:

Kent

Though grievously wounded in battle, Kent has not neglected his duty. He has remained at Lyn's side and seen her safely to Caelin.

Sain

Though grievously wounded in battle, Sain has never neglected his duty. He has remained at Lyn's side and seen her safely to Caelin.

Florina

Her injuries are not so severe that Florina has to abandon Lyn's side. She has traveled with her to Caelin, and once she recovers, she joins Lyn's forces as a mercenary.

Wil

Though injured in combat, Wil continues to travel with Lyn, having found a cause in which he believes. He becomes a retainer to Castle Caelin.

Dorcas

After taking injuries in combat, Dorcas returns to Bern to tend to his wife. He never sees Lyn again.

Serra

Wounded in battle, Serra decides that a life of quiet meditation is the best course. She bids Lyn farewell and joins service in Ostia.

Erk

After recovering from his injuries, Erk parts ways with Lyn.

Nils

This section is the entire story, from start to finish. I have summarised it, because the raw text will take something around 800KB, which is just plain massive. I warn thee now: MASSIVE SPOILERS AHEAD!

Alright, I'll cut it short.

Lyn Mode:

Lyn travels with a bunch of minor characters to attempt to stop her evil granduncle (her grandfather's brother) from taking the throne of Caelin. Her mother moved with a nomad 19 years ago to Sacae but the Lorca tribe was wiped out by the Taliver bandits. Lundgren, her granduncle is trying to kill her so she won't disturb his plans to poison the current ruler of Caelin (Marquess Caelin, Lyn's grandfather) and take the throne for himself. Lyn meets up with random characters and travels through many battles with brigands. Eventually, she defeats Lundgren and reunites with her grandfather. Her grandfather survives and together they remain... Lyndis's Legion is still together (Wil, Florina, Kent and Sain) but the others depart their separate ways for a much bigger adventure later on...

Eliwood Mode:

Eliwood, the heir to the throne of Pherae is looking for his father, Marquess Pherae who has disappeared with his army for several months. Things go wrong as it seems many of his old allies have gone corrupt because of a mysterious organisation. He meets up with his old friend, Hector and is guided by the tactician on a long journey. The Black Fang's involvement becomes more apparent as close friends depart, but Eliwood hopes his father is fine. All of the characters from Lyn Mode reappear sooner or later. Eliwood eventually discovers the Black Fang have been corrupted by an insane man named Nergal, who is looking for power. In the first scuffle, Eliwood's father dies trying while severely wounding Nergal. Everyone is whisked to safety from the hideout of the Black Fang known as Dread Isle. Nergal lives on, he is not human any longer. Eliwood has several encounters with the Black Fang's innocent victims, the once righteous organisation corrupted. Many innocents are taken and in the confusion more blood is shed. Eventually, Eliwood is deceived into killing his own love, Ninian. After some more encounters with the Black Fang, Athos emerges with the Divine Weapons ready to take on Nergal and his grunts. Nergal actually uses beings known as morphs, corpses of real life people to do his bidding. He uses the foes of the past and infuses them with insane power. But even then, Eliwood persists and takes them down. With his massive army, he kills Nergal. But Nergal's plan is fulfilled – he has unlocked the gate to the dragon world. Dragons and humans have not met for thousands of years. Braimmond, the Legendary Hero of Darkness (one of Heroes of legend with Athos) revives Ninian because three dragons have emerged from the gate. Ninian seals two but cannot seal the last due to loss of energy. Eliwood and his army for the last time take up arms and defeat the poor dragon. Afterwards, everyone lives happily ever after... Well, for 20 years, that is.

Hector Mode:

The same story as Eliwood, with a few changes:

- Hector is helping Eliwood and it is Hector's army
- Hector and his brother, Uther's relationship is discovered and we learn more about Hector grieving after Uther's sudden death to illness
- More chapters are focused on Hector and his adventures
- We learn more about Nergal's past as Nils' and Ninian's father, how he created morphs and how he became evil.

- > Transfer Data (if you have the Bonus Disk)

Support Conversations is where you can view the support options of characters and support conversations that you have unlocked.

Transfer Data is where you transfer items etc. from the Mario Kart: Double Dash Bonus Disk to Fire Emblem.

These two above are not explained in-depth, because:

- Supports are explained already and I already said that listing every conversation would be too tedious for a general guide
- Transfer Data is not mandatory and I have not actually used it before

a) Link Arena ----- [1810]

The Link Arena is a place where players construct a team of 5 and pit the teams against each other. There is no movement or terrain involved, merely selecting weapons, characters and selecting the foe to attack. My Link Arena section is far inferior to the GameFAQs Link Arena guide by Cyan of Doma, but I can offer a few tips.

First of all, each team member must be considered. There are some classes that are much better off in the Link Arena than others. Those characters with the highest caps possible (30) in areas normally do much better than others. Magic units are not effective in the Link Arena because they are too slow, because of their low CON. There are not enough Body Rings to accommodate to them. The only magic user worth considering for the Link Arena is Canas. Athos appears strong, but needs stat boosters to max out all his stats.

The better classes are: generals, great lord, berserkers, warriors, swordmasters

The next thing to consider is whether those characters can cap all their stats, that is reach their maximum potential in all areas. There are limited resources for using stat boosters, so this is a big area to consider. Some characters have uncappable stats, that is they cannot cap them even if they gain a point every level up. These characters include Jaffar and Athos. To cap every stat, RNG abuse must be employed. Check the RNG section for more details. RNG abuse ensures that every stat will level up and be capped.

After we have narrowed down who can effectively be used in the Link Arena, the next step is to form a SUPPORT CIRCLE. The team of 5 must be able to support each other to the maximum, that is either an A + B support or an A + C + C support. Supports make a team much stronger than usual.

Next, items come into play. This is a crucial aspect of Link Arena battles; you would not use a Bolting because it does not work in the Link Arena. The best weapons tend to be:

S rank weapons

Professional weapons eg. divine weapons, Mani Katti etc.

Silver weapons

Killer weapons

Brave weapons

Reaver weapons

The key is to find out what is really needed for the unit. If a unit has a glaring weakness, it must be fixed!

Don't be afraid to use all 5 item slots, because more often than not they will all be used.

The Iron Rune and Delphi Shield bear some significance, consider carefully who needs them. The Iron Rune shuts down assassins (which are risky anyway).

When deciding items, you must also consider what weapon is best to S rank.

If two people S rank the same weapon, one will be a wasted S rank because they will not get that item.

Another factor is how resources will be employed to use weapons better, such as stat boosters.

One last thing: the mine glitch is almost always required to get the almighty Uber Spear as well as the maximum amount of Swordslayers, the best reaver weapon in the game.

Oh, don't be afraid to experiment. You might just find the best Link Arena team yet... (well, probably not)

The current best Link Arena teams are:

Cyan's Team Force

Hector(A Oswin)<Body Ring> S rank Sword, A Axe

E:Armads, Regal Blade, Brave Sword, Swordslayer, Iron Rune

Oswin(A Hector, B Dorcas) S rank Lance, A Axe

E:Uber Spear, Rex Hasta, Axereaver, Silver Axe, Brave Lance

Dorcas(B Oswin, B Geitz) S rank Axe, A Bow

E:Basilikos, Killer Axe, Killer Bow, Swordslayer, Silver Bow

Geitz(A Dart, B Dorcas) S rank Bow, A Axe

E:Rienfleche, Brave Bow, Killer Bow, Silver Axe, Swordslayer

Dart(A Geitz)<x2 Body Ring>

E:Brave Axe, Silver Axe, Killer Axe, Tomahawk, Swordslayer

TheCrimsonBlur's Team

Oswin(A Dorcas)

E:Uber Spear, Rex Hasta, Axereaver, Silver Axe, Iron Rune

Dorcas(A Os, B Geitz)

E:Brave Axe, Silver Axe, Killer Axe, Swordslayer, Silver bow

Geitz(B Dorcas, B Dart, C Karel)

E:Rienfleche, Brave Bow, Killer Bow, Silver Axe, Swordslayer

Dart[body ring](A Karel, B Geitz)

E:Basilikos, Tomahawk, Dragon Axe, Killer Axe, Swordslayer

Karel(58/57? HP)[2 body ring](A Dart, C Geitz)

E:Regal Blade, Brave Sword, Wind Sword, Wo Dao, Lancereaver

As you can see, both have almost perfect support circles, amazing weapon selection, great characters and classes, the employment of the Uber Spear, Iron Rune and many reaver weapons.

There are only a few that you cannot obtain even after reading every story dialogue without skipping. These are unlocked in the following fashion:

1: Leave the game playing the story without pressing buttons
79: Ninian and Eliwood require an A support. After that, watch the entire scene after Eliwood retrieves Durandal in Eliwood Mode, including Ninian's death. You should unlock this song afterwards.
81: Lyn and Hector require an A support. A 'Talk' option will appear when they are next to each other in Chapter 29x Eliwood/31x Hector.
86-88: Enter the Link Arena and enter a battle.
90: Let a character die.
91: Fail a chapter completely (ie. get a Game Over screen).
97: Obtain songs 1-96
99-100: Mario Kart: Double Dash Bonus Disk (this is not necessary, you will get 100% even without these two songs as long as everything else is complete)

c) CGs ----- [1830]

Here are the CGs that cannot be obtained by merely playing through the game once and reading the story (not skipping text).

Privacy: Hector and Lyn aboard the pirate ship. Read the dialogue before Chapter 18 Hector Mode only.

A Glimpse in Time: A shaman and two children in a ruins location. Read the dialogue before the battle in the Hector exclusive Chapter 19xx Kishuna: Nergal and Kishuna, who is naked. Read the dialogue before the battle in Chapter 22x Eliwood/Chapter 23x Hector or Chapter 32x Hector.

Nils Leaves Alone: If Eliwood and Ninian have an A support, this will be unlocked after the Final battle. Nils is leaving the human world.

Ninian and Nils Go Together: If Eliwood and Ninian do not have an A support, this will be unlocked in the dialogue after the Final battle. Ninian and Nils are leaving the human world.

Friendship: If Hector and Eliwood have an A support with each other, or if they have no A support with major characters this will be unlocked. Hector and Eliwood are laughing and messing around, Lyn is also smiling in the background.

Hector's Coronation: Instead of Eliwood's, in Hector Mode you see Hector's. View the Epilogue in Hector Mode.

Nergal and his wife: Complete all four Kishuna optional chapters in Hector Mode. These chapters are: 19x, 19xx, 23x and 32x. Nergal is petting his wife who is a dragon on the face. Their faces cannot be seen, just shadows.

Ninian and Eliwood: Ninian is in Eliwood's arms and they are both happy. Get an A support between Ninian and Eliwood in Eliwood's Mode and this appears right before the Epilogue.

Substitute A support between Ninian and Eliwood with and Eliwood
Flora and Eliwood: Same conditions as above. Flora is surprised as Eliwood is passionately hugging her.

Lyn and Eliwood: Same conditions as above. Eliwood and Lyn are staring at each other.

Hector and Lyn: Right before the Epilogue in Hector Mode if they have an A support. Hector is pulling Lyn to him in a rough hug.

Substitute A support between Hector and Lyn with A support between and Hector Hector and Florina: Same conditions as above. Hector is carrying Florina on his shoulder (with one arm!).

Hector and Farina: Same conditions as above. Farina and Hector are linked by the arms and look happy.

d) Battle History ----- [1840]

Here you can view your rank for any mode. S is the best rank, D is the worst (or at least, I have not heard of anyone getting below that).
The standard player will probably get a B.

In case you are wondering, here's how the ranks are based on:
25 stars (perfect): S rank
21-24 stars: A rank
I haven't established the others yet. Help would be appreciated.

There are 5 fields, each one representing something that is very important to obtain the S rank. Each field can have a maximum of 5 stars.

Tactics – Based on speed, ie. number of turns per chapter. It is uncertain whether the basis is on average or a quota/surplus of turns. The faster the better.

Combat – How much damage dealt and taken. This is a simple matter of tactics, because using the weapon and magic triangle to your advantage as well as being sensible about decisions and picking on weaknesses is all you need. This should all be second nature to you as you master the game.

Funds – How much money you have accumulated, not only raw cash but monetary value of all items. Conserving items, especially valuable items are a must. Being reckless with money is going to screw you over in this department.

Experience – How much EXP your units gain. Using a lot of low levelled characters and not relying on promoted characters for all your battles will get you a high rank here. Also, you must use many characters.

Survival – Keep everyone alive and restart if they die. As long as you do that, you will get 5 stars in survival.

Also, the comment is made by the person who you gave the Afa's Drops. If you didn't use it, Merlinus makes the comment. In Lyn Mode, Lyn makes the comment.

Some people's comments are harsher than others and some people's faces are ugly so carefully consider who you want to be in your Battle History. The comments are listed in Battle History Comments.

Battle History displays your best rank. A new playthrough will not overwrite the same record unless that record is better (eg. you got B before, now you got an S).

The rank of the tactician makes a minor difference to the ending.

~::~ 19) SECRETS ~::~ [1900]

Here are some random glitches etc. that might be worth knowing.

Arena abuse –

In places in the game, there are arenas where you can gamble for money and training at the risk of your survival. Their locations are as follows:

Chapter 16x Eliwood/17x Hector

Chapter 20 Eliwood/21 Hector

Chapter 23 Eliwood/24 Hector

Chapter 29x Eliwood/ 31x Hector

Arena abuse basically means using the arena a lot in order to make units become extremely powerful and gain a lot of money. Arenas are useful for getting some cash on the way to achieving an S rank as well. There are a few tips to remember when arena abusing:

- Hit B as soon as you think you are losing!
- Never accept a bet over 700G
- As soon as you are faced with a swordmaster or berserker, concede BEFORE they can critical
- Use high speed units that have low defence for best results

Mine Glitch –

You've probably heard of this term before. Lay a mine in a space you know the enemy will land on. As soon as they get damaged by it, soft reset. When you Resume Chapter, you will be in control of the enemy!

The best application of this glitch is to obtain Vaida's Uber Spear in Chapter 24 Eliwood/Chapter 26 Hector. It grants some insane boosts due to Nergal's magic. Use the enemy wyverns to trade between Vaida all the way to Merlinus.

Another good application of this glitch is to disarm enemies (make them discard all weapons) so some weaker units can gain EXP. An interesting thing is that you can make enemies rescue each other.

Infinite ring effect –

After dancing to a unit, have that unit rescued. The effect will remain.

The best example of using this glitch is to arena abuse in Chapter 20. Have Ninian stand next to the unit who will go to the arena. Use Nini's Grace. That unit will gain significant defences. Send them to the arena with the effect. After they have used the arena, rescue with a pegasus knight that is next to the arena unit. Another pegasus knight should stand on the other side of the arena. Next turn, drop the unit in the arena, who will still have the effect. Ninian can play to that unit, the unit goes to the arena and the other pegasus knight rescues. Rinse and repeat. This way, you keep Nini's Grace in effect and can arena abuse effectively without wasting Nini's Grace.

Repairing items -

With such items as lockpicks, when they are running out let an enemy thief steal it off you (give it to a low speed unit). Steal it back and it will be back to full durability.

Secret Shops -

There are secret shops with rare and valuable weapons. They are hidden in conspicuous locations and can only be accessed by a thief who possesses a Member's Card (you must steal it from the thief in Chapter 19 Eliwood/20 Hector). Their locations are:

(For visual location, go to:

<http://s7.invisionfree.com/FESS/index.php?showtopic=2802>)

Chapter 19E/20H -

In the far south west of the map, there is a lone tree that takes up one square.

Above the chests in the north west of the map, go in the space between the two walls to the far right, wedged right in the middle furthest into the wall.

Chapter 21E/22H -

There is an empty room in the north west of the map. Send a thief to the patterned tile there.

Chapter 23E/24H Lloyd -

A little below the castle, there seems to be a flurry of trees and mountains, but one space is completely empty. Send a thief there.

Chapter 23E/24H Linus - On the big island, there is a lone tree. Send a thief there.

Chapter 29E/31H - Warp a thief to the small green area just near the lone chest in the south west.

Chapter 30E/32H - Above the throne, among the trees there is one square that is plain. Send a thief/assassin there.

Link Arena Level Up Glitch -

Sometimes, especially when an assassin OHKO's a foe in the Link Arena, they might level up beyond the maximum capacity (ie. they can go past level 20).

~~~~~ 20) UNSOLVED MYSTERIES ~~~~~ [2000]

This section is designed to make a list of all the things that are still unsolved in the game.

THE DEVIL AXE - The curse of the Devil Axe remains unbroken. No one can decipher the formula for its curse, so it remains a deadly weapon. Many people have confirmed that Luck does not affect the curse, so what does?

EXP FORMULA - The EXP formula remains at large unsolved. Although it is according to most ridiculously complicated, it would be nice to end the mystery that plagues many players. And what the hell happens to the EXP in Hard mode, anyway?

THE PLAYER'S RANK - It is still unknown EXACTLY how much in each of the five fields is required to guarantee an S rank. How much money? How much EXP? Is it a ratio? A value? Something I've overlooked?

THE STARS NEXT TO THE TACTICIAN - In Battle Preparations, when looking at a tactician's details, what are those stars that appear on the screen? There are a maximum of what - 8? 9? What are they for?

GROWTHS – Some growths remain controversial, such as the Afa's Drops and the affinity boost... Confirmation would be nice.

That's about it... Until I can think of more.

~::~ 21) CONCLUSION ~::~ [2100]

It's over... already.

-----

a) Revision History ----- [2110]

-----

Version 1.00

Date: December 16th, 2005

All basic elements of guide complete. A few minor areas that might need work in the future.

Version 1.01

Date: February 22nd, 2006

Emergency update... This isn't a very important one. My bigger ones will come soon. I'm sorry to the 400 or so people who visit my site each day! Time is money, as they say. I'll be fixing up pretty much the entire guide over the next few months (I assume). This update is to make sure people are not misled in any way. Look out for a Hard Mode guide in my next update!!!

Oh, by the way, I am well and truly aware of the fact that a few sections are kinda crappy (although so far all I have received are praises for my guide). Please bear with me – apart from general high school life, I have other projects I am taking on board as well as just having a life.

Version 1.02

Date: March 1st, 2006

For some reason, when I updated before, GameFAQs updated my KB but not the document itself... Sorry to those people who came to this guide wondering about the update and realised that nothing had changed! Anyway, this is another emergency update. I'm still working on the other parts of the guide, but one new part I have added is osrevad's ASCII art.

Version 1.1

Date: April 20th, 2006 NEW LAYOUT!

I've changed the entire layout of the guide so it is easier to navigate and use. Several errors in the guide have been corrected, and many sections have undergone a rewrite. The walkthrough still needs a lot of work done on it, and the Hard modes are still not up... But, I'm working on it!

There's also something else I need to mention. I'm currently working on an in-depth S-Rank Walkthrough, Game Script and Plot Analysis. I need your inputs on whether you think I should incorporate the S-Rank stuff in here, or keep it as a stand-alone. Once again, I remind everyone that feedback is very much appreciated. Any questions are also encouraged to be asked.

I need to work a bit more on Hector mode, and PLENTY more on the Hard modes as well as Special Conversations. Call me lazy, but I just haven't found the motivation to finish it off yet.

I'm pretty pleased with the walkthrough so far, but if you spot any errors in enemies and reinforcements, let me know. I've made craploads of errors already...
